

Nixon Steals Show From Burma Demonstrators

Sound Truck Announcer Changes His Line When VP Casually Wanders Among Leftists

By RUSSELL BRINES
RANGOON, Burma (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon walked into a rather lethargic anti-American demonstration by Burmese leftists Thursday and promptly stole the show from them.

It happened at Pegu, an ancient city 40 miles northwest of Rangoon on the edge of territory frequently fought over by various Communist bands.

The vice president and his wife, Pat, under escort of two truckloads of soldiers for a Thanksgiving day ride through the sometimes unsettled countryside, were met at Pegu by a handful of demonstrators carrying placards with a "Yankee Warmonger" theme in crude verse.

The same sentiments were broadcast in English from a radio-equipped truck to a small impassive group of persons, most of whom spoke English fluently.

First Anti-U.S. Display
To the evident amazement of Burmese officials, Nixon insisted on walking among the demonstrators. It was the first such anti-American display he had seen personally on his visit around southeast Asia. The officials explained they first thought of stopping the rally, but decided to let it continue because "this is a free country."

As Nixon came abreast of the broadcasting truck, there was a sudden change of line by a fat announcer who had been declaring the United States supported a Nationalist Chinese guerrilla army that Rangoon is trying to get out of northern Burma. Without taking a breath, the announcer said, "We earnestly request Richard Nixon to help us in getting the Chinese out."

A few paces farther, Nixon walked up to a young Burmese holding an anti-American sign. At the sight of the Vice President, flanked by officials and police, the sign-holder quaked.

Nixon asked a few questions. The sign-holder promptly appealed to a superior, who identified himself as a teacher.

Wearing a pith helmet and Burmese skirt and chewing betel nut, the mild mannered man many Burmese use, the teacher said: "We don't want aggression from anywhere, not from the United States, Russia or China."

Asked About Poland
But he said the Indochina conflict, where Communist-led forces are fighting the French Union, is "a war of liberation."

Nixon asked him if the Poles were free.

The teacher said he had never been to Poland.

By this time the entire crowd had gathered around.

The rally broke up when Nixon shook hands with the demonstrators and Mrs. Nixon smilingly said goodbye.

"I wanted to show we are not afraid of them," Nixon explained.

Along the way, villagers showed the Nixons something of Burma's culture and her problems, new wells bored with Burmese government help and colorful dances of welcome.

At a Thanksgiving luncheon of chicken and mutton curry, the vice president told Pegu leaders "independence can be retained only if we deal effectively with the problems of the government and the people, so those who would take independence away don't have a chance for insidious arguments."

In a broadcast from Rangoon Thursday night, he assured the neutral-minded Burmese the United States is not seeking military bases here and "has never sought favors which would cast doubt on Burmese courage or discredit this country's new nationalism."

Hog Judges Fail
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The grand champion barrow, a Poland China, selected at the Indiana State Fair, didn't even place in the competition for top carcass after the hogs were slaughtered. And the spotted Poland China chosen as top carcass didn't place among the winners in the live classes. Judges said it appeared more study is needed to spot the best pork while it is still alive.

He Just Didn't Know When He Was Well Off

OMAHA (AP) — "This is a stick-up," said a stranger who walked into an oil station where Alvin West was on duty Thursday.

West didn't see a gun and refused to hand over any money.

The next thing West knew, a bullet grazed his back and the stranger fled across the street.

West chased him but in the middle of the street the holdup man stopped suddenly and brought a hard object crashing down on West's head. He removed $86 from the downed attendant's pockets and disappeared.

West, 50, was treated at County Hospital for a three-inch wound on his back and a scalp bruise.

Fairbury's Chest Drive Tops Goal

FAIRBURY — (Lincoln Star Special) — Community Chest Drive, Chairman Earl Elger has reported that contributions to the Fairbury Community Chest have exceeded the $12,145 goal by at least $47 with more still to be accounted for.

Elger reported that the heads of the six agencies which will benefit from the drive were well pleased and expressed appreciation for the support given the drive.

The six groups are: YWCA, Youth Center, Girl Scouts, YMCA, Boy Scouts, and Salvation Army.

Russia Bans U.S. Jazz, But Vishinsky Is Hep

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — American jazz is banned in the Soviet Union, but Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky apparently stays pretty hep at his New York residence.

Discussing American air bases abroad in a U.N. speech Thursday, he asked why the United States wanted such establishments close to the Soviet Union.

"To enable the commanders of these bombers and fighter planes to dance the fox-trot or to rhumba with the Russian girls, or in order that they may play gramophone records of the 'You, You, You' variety? They just want to 'Cuddle Up a Little Closer' to the Soviet Union?"

Vishinsky made it clear he didn't believe this. Rather, he said, the bases are there for aggression, not cuddling.

Balmy Weather

NEW YORK (AP) — The Italian liner Andrea Doria arrived here from Mediterranean ports Thursday with stories of balmy weather on the Atlantic.

Line officials said passengers swam in the ship's outdoor pool as recently as Wednesday, with the temperature hovering around 75 degrees.

Ships arriving up to a few days ago had reported storms and fog on their trans-Atlantic crossings.

95.7% Back Tito

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Yugoslavia reported Thursday that most of this country's eligible voters had cast their ballots in last Sunday's elections with 95.7 per cent supporting President Tito's Communist government. As reported by the official press and radio, 9,422,297 of the 10,587,644 eligible voters went to the polls. The elections were held under a new constitution and with a one-party ticket to pick new members of this country's next parliament.

Death Penalty Asked

TEHRAN (INS) — The prosecutor in the treason trial of former Iranian Premier Moh a m e d Mossadeq ended his indictment speech Thursday and demanded the death penalty for the elderly defendant.

Churchill Wins

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill's Conservative government Thursday night won the opening round in Britain's "Battle of Television." The House of Lords defeated by 157 to 87 a motion opposing the government plan to introduce commercial TV.

The vote in Lords does not constitute a decisive test of confidence in the government, but a government defeat would have been a blow to its prestige.

O'Brien Boy 'Good'

BOSTON (AP) — The mother of a college student arrested with her and his father in connection with the $681,700 robbery 20 months ago of an armored truck in Danvers Thursday defended her son as a "good boy."

Mrs. Margaret O'Brien, 42, mother of three children, said her son, George D. O'Brien Jr., 19, "isn't involved in this thing." She is free under $1,000 bond on a charge of receiving stolen property.

Young O'Brien and his ex-convict father, George D. Sr., are held in Suffolk County Jail for lack of bail. The youth, a junior at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is held in $5,000 on a charge of receiving stolen money. He was suspended by MIT pending outcome of the case.

Gunman Captured

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (INS) — Gunman Thomas Jackson Masingale, placed on the FBI's list of 10 most wanted criminals only eight days ago, was captured without a struggle in a Las Vegas, N. M., hotel room Thursday.

The 29-year-old Oklahoma and Kansas gunman had been traveling under the name of Roy Croft as a member of an advance crew of photo salesmen through Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico.

U.S. Service Offered

SEOUL (Friday) (INS) — Republic of Korea Foreign Minister Pyan Yung Tai disclosed that the United States has offered to become a mediator at a future ROK-Japan diplomatic conference to settle diplomatic and fishery disputes between the two countries.

Desertion Reported

BERLIN (INS) — The East German News Agency claimed Thursday that an American soldier of Polish origin had fled into the Soviet Zone of Germany on Nov. 7 and asked the Polish government to give him political asylum.

General Reduction

The Russian delegate led into his claim by saying British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd had asserted the Russians were trying to get general reductions of armaments in the fields in which they were weakest. It was alleged, he said, that the Soviet Union was trying to prohibit atomic weapons because, according to Lloyd, the other side had greater numbers of them.

Then Vishinsky said:

"How can one speak such words at the present time when the Soviet Union does have the atomic bomb and does have the hydrogen bomb and when the Soviet Union is not behind other countries in this respect, other countries which, I may add, do not have everything in this field of atomic and other weapons, that the Soviet Union already has."

That was the version as heard by the delegates in the committee room and reported in the verbatim transcript of the committee meeting.

Vishinsky assailed for the second time in this debate the Bermuda conference of the Western Big Three convening Dec. 4. Lloyd had claimed it was a meeting of friends to talk over common problems, but Vishinsky said it was anything but that.

News Around The Globe

Ike Voices Hope For Peace

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower voiced a prayerful hope at a family Thanksgiving dinner Thursday night that American boys never will have to go off to war again.

With the first lady, their Army major son, his wife and the three Eisenhower grandchildren gathered around a 39-pound Nebraska turkey at the Augusta National Golf Club, the President made these remarks as the family sat down to dinner:

"America has countless things to be thankful for on this November 26. But I think most important is this:

"For the first Thanksgiving in the last four we sit down to the traditional Thanksgiving feast without the fear of the casualty list hanging over us."

Two-Day Hi-Y Model Legislature Meet Opens Today

A two-day legislature-in-miniature will get under way in Lincoln Friday morning at the opening session of the annual Hi-Y Youth and Government Model Legislature.

About 120 "senators" representing 47 Hi-Y youth clubs in Nebraska will convene at the Capitol Friday morning to study and to vote upon a list of serious proposals for improvement of Nebraska government.

The mock Legislature will be formally opened at 10:30 a.m. with an address of welcome by Mayor Clark Jeary of Lincoln. The oath of office will be administered to the young "chief justice" by Chief Justice Robert Simmons on the Nebraska Supreme Court. The youthful officials will then swear in the members of the mock Legislature.

Early indications are that measures to be considered by the group will include one for a state sales tax, for driver education, an 18-year-old voter bill, a measure for greater wildlife conservation and one to legalize use of the lie detector for evidence.

The "senators" who represent some 2,000 Nebraska boys, will get a chance to either approve or vote down the measures following study by six committees which will be named in the first session. Bills will be open to debate both in the committees and on the floor later.

21 Bills

There are 21 bills up for study, but if past experience is an indicator, the "legislature" will only pass about eight or ten.

The pre-legislative sessions were held in Lincoln, Omaha, Grand Island and Alliance where local judges, attorneys and other interested citizens helped the boys draft the bills now up for passage in the two day program.

Assisting the legislative committees will be:

Sen. Bob McKittrick
Ex-Senator Tom Adams
Ex-Senator Tom Davies
Ex-Senator Lester Dunn
Ex-Senator Frank Hodge
Leonard Fleetwood, of the state auditor's office.

Britain Is Tops In Candy Eating

LONDON (INS)—Britain has developed a colossal sweet tooth and her people are eating more candy and chocolates than any other nation in the world.

Each person in the country now consumes an average of eight ounces of chocolates and candy a week.

Col. A. B. Walters, president of the Cocoa, Chocolate and Confectionery Alliance, says he knows of no country where sweets are being eaten at this rate.

The consumption has remained at this high level since sweets were taken off the ration last Feb-

In PURSUIT of HAPPINESS

By J. GORDON ROBERTS

Can we have the sunbeams without the sun?

A reader submits a publication, THE TWELVE STEPPEE, part of which is quoted here:

"In Pursuit of Happiness", a column in the World-Herald by Gordon Roberts, the question was asked: 'What is a good life?' 'Mr. Roberts asks thoughtful men and women to try and answer the question of what is a really good way of living.' The publication includes the following comments by The Most Reverend Fulton J. Sheen:

"In chasing after the tidbits of what we thought was good, we were really in pursuit of Goodness, and Goodness is God."

"Every quest for excitement, every love of a good friend, every comparison of good and better, implies some Goodness beyond all good things. To say that we want good things but not Goodness, which is Godness, is like saying we like the sunbeams but hate the sun."

"Sometimes we are mistaken in our choice of what is good. Drunkenness seems good to the alcoholic, and money to the miser."

This column runs Monday through Friday.

No Turning Back

The Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation is to be congratulated that it did not fall for the blandishments being offered to do away with the Nebraska Unicameral and to restore its place the two-house legislative system.

The organization in its resolutions did urge enlargement of the membership of the Unicameral, not on a basis of population but geography. There is no proposal at this time scheduled to come before the people of the state to enlarge the membership of the Unicameral. The only issue that will be submitted to popular vote is one doing away with the Unicameral and substituting the two-house legislature for it. The bi-partisan group now active in the effort to change the Nebraska legislative setup decided nothing short of the elimination of the Unicameral, which has served this state very well, would satisfy them.

There is some basis for the conclusion that the action taken by the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation is representative of sentiment in Nebraska with respect to the proposed legislative change. The demand for a return to the two-house system did not originate with the people. In a very large sense it is expressive of a political leadership, which never favored the Unicameral system, and has never been reconciled to it.

One Among Many

Party hacks—Republicans and Democrats alike—never have had any great love for the merit system. It has stood between them and the jobs they covet.

One development in Washington in recent months that has escaped public attention generally has been an increasing distortion of Civil Service in order to open the door to provide jobs for faithful Republicans. Recently a native-born Nebraskan, Jane Hoey, who was within a few months of retirement from the post which she has occupied, received notice that her services were not needed any longer. The injustice to Miss Hoey inspired Fred C. White of Monterey, Mass., to write this letter to the Christian Science Monitor:

"So we have lost Jane Hoey from the important Bureau of Public Assistance. I recall the general satisfaction 18 years ago when John G. Winant, a Republican New Hampshire governor, called into federal service by President Roosevelt, chose Miss Hoey for this important office. She had already become an outstanding leader in social service. Her work has been excellent but she is a Democrat. Secretary Hobby rules that this is a policy-making agency, although its head can only recommend policy to the administrator. We had thought there was no politics in poverty, but now public assistance follows the Race Relations Service, the National Park Service, and the Fish and Wildlife Service into the 'policy-making' class. In view of the 1952 Republican platform pledge, 'federal employees shall be selected under a strengthened and extended merit system,' the removal of Miss Hoey is disappointing."

It can be taken for granted that President Eisenhower had no intention of initiating some of the changes that have come about since he became President. He came under the fire of his Republican associates in Congress almost immediately after taking office because there were so many deserving Republicans clamoring for jobs.

That is where the President, an amiable, friendly, warm-hearted man, made a serious mistake. He has had to replace scores of competent, experienced helpers with people unfamiliar with even the most routine duties of the posts to which they aspire. The Eisenhower administration, of course, is paying a price for closing its eyes to experience and admitted competency in order to take care of patronage-hungry members of Congress. But worse, it is the people themselves who pay in the end. The administration repeatedly pleads for time to get going when it could have been on its way if it had utilized the services of men and women with a long record of experience back of them.

This broken promise of strengthening and extending the merit system will arise to embarrass the Eisenhower administration.

Too Many Issues

In these rushing days when there is a problem behind every door and an issue around every corner it is hard for the average citizen to keep all of his points of danger in mind.

This was pointed out during the Farm Bureau convention when a resolution was proposed asking for delay by the Interior Department in applying its new power marketing criteria. The Bureau wished more time to study its effects.

A member rose to his feet and asked, "What is a criteria and what does this resolution pertain to?" Indeed, most of the delegates found themselves in the same position. Their minds of late had been so filled with parity arguments, national spy chasing and other emphasized matters that a truly portentous shift in public power policy was a stranger in their thinking. This is significant inasmuch as virtually all of the delegates are REA patrons and what happens to public power will certainly happen to them.

The worrisome thing about the new criteria is Interior's intention to give private power companies 20 year contracts to whatever public generated power cannot now be absorbed by the public agencies. The move would have the effect of freezing the public power enterprise at somewhere near its present size despite the necessity for low cost power in event of increased future demand. It is a commentary on today's loss of true perspective and sense of relative importance because of the hectic drama of Washington—emphasis on what politics considers as important.

Social Security

Unless the federal act of 1935 is amended the present 1 1/2 per cent social security tax, paid alike by employer and employee, will go to two per cent in 1954.

Opponents of the increase point out that present rates have built a substantial surplus and that an added tax will only swell an already overfilled fund. Since social security funds find current employment in other government activities there is a hidden hint that the new increase would only amount to a new form of general taxation.

It is significant, too, that while business, which pays its equal share of this tax, is already confronted with heavy tax problems, the employees as well have a problem. The added half per cent social security tax would offset any relief from income tax the new year promises. Indeed, where salaries are less than $300 a month income tax relief would be less than social security additions.

DREW PEARSON

Bi-Partisan Handling Of Red Hunt Suggested

WASHINGTON — Thanksgiving is a period when we are supposed to do some thinking about our country and its blessings and how we can keep those blessings. I would like to put forward at this time two ideas which may help to end confusion and bitterness engendered over the Brownell spy exposés. Here they are:

Idea No. 1—Appoint a bipartisan commission of ex-judges or men of unimpeachable integrity to sift these charges and tell the American people the real truth. This is what President Roosevelt did when mistakes were made at Pearl Harbor. Owen D. Roberts, a Republican member of the Supreme Court, was appointed to review Pearl Harbor errors. Calvin Coolidge did the same thing during the Teapot Dome scandal, when he appointed Owen D. Roberts and ex-Sen. Alice Pomeroy of Ohio, Democrat, to sift Teapot Dome guilt. Woodrow Wilson followed the same practice during charges of airplane scandal in World War I involving the present secretary of the air force, Harold G. G. Wilson. Wilson appointed the Republican who ran against him for president, Charles Evans Hughes, to probe the whole matter.

Idea No. 2—Adopt a system not unlike the practice of the Catholic church whereby those who honestly sinned in regard to Communism and have honestly repented, may be forgiven.

The Catholics, who have given heaven to many ex-Communists in the past years, have shown the greatest wisdom and compassion in this respect. They recognize that there is no way for repentant Communists to leave the party these days, because the shame is too great. They must remain in the party, unwilling prisoners, driven underground.

It is important that spies who deliberately betrayed their country be prosecuted. However, little people who were duped into embracing Communism should be encouraged to desert the party, not forced to remain prisoners. Unfortunately, one way Communists keep their party together these days is by threatening prospective deserters that they will squeal to McCarthy or Velde if they do desert.

MORE TOLERANCE

What the nation needs today is more tolerance, not more TV headlines for congressmen. It needs more forgiveness and a safe way to ascertain whether a man has genuinely embarked on a new life.

Unfortunately, the best way for a congressman to get elected these days is to make headlines, and the easiest way to make headlines is by an investigation. Investigations have an important place in our political picture.

AS OTHERS SEE IT

Forgotten Legislatures

Richard L. Neuberger in The Butcher Workman

While he peers at the national capital with 20-20 vision, the average voter views his state capital but dimly. A New York Times survey indicated that comparatively few persons in that area even knew the names of the members from their own locality serving in the State Senate and the State House of Representatives.

American legislatures set standards for public schools, fix minimum salaries for school teachers and often decide how much school boards can spend and where the money shall come from.

Whether or not a state has an effective meat-inspection law is entirely up to its Legislature. Standards for weights and measures are decided under state capital domes.

A rampant Legislature, full of irresponsible members, can pass laws imperiling civil liberties, endangering our trade unions or jeopardizing valuable state timber and recreational lands.

Highways are a subject for legislative action and also the number of state troopers to protect our lives from speed maniacs.

Voters Create a Vacuum
Your Legislature will determine whether your state has a tax system based on ability to pay or a tax system which levies most heavily on poor families.

But all too seldom does the typical voter pay close attention to who represents him in the state Legislature.

In this vacuum, strange things have transpired. Rhode Island legislators staffed parmutual windows at a race track while the assembly was in session.

Railway Progress magazine contended there was "unmistakable evidence in New Jersey that railroad passes were being handed out by legislators to pay political debts."

And the St. Louis Post-Dispatch has described the Legislature of Missouri as "virtually politically charlatans throughout its whole history."

In Missouri a prominent legislator was found to be on the payroll of a trucking company during a bitter battle over bus and truck taxes.

In Oregon a creamery attorney in the Senate led opposition to a bill authorizing cheaper milk prices for housewives willing to carry home their own grocery orders.

Legislators' Miserly Pay
A laborer is worthy of his hire but in Tennessee, a great state of 3,300,000 people, legislative pay is $4 a day. Would a golf caddy or self-sustaining baby-sitter work for that?

New Hampshire pays $100 a year, Utah $500 a year, Oregon $600 a year.

In Oregon more than half the legislators must put their wives on the state payroll as secretaries ture and should not be abandoned. When such important questions as loyalty and national safety are concerned, they should be nonpartisan.

The present head of the Senate Security Committee, William Jenner of Indiana, is anything but nonpartisan. He is the same man who, from the safety of the senate floor, castigated the patriotism and loyalty of Gen. George Marshall, best friend of President Eisenhower and the man who gave like promotion after promotion during the war.

His counterpart, Harold Velde of Illinois, chairman of the Un-American Activities Committee, might use better judgment to his own advantage. His subpoena slapped on Harry Truman was not good judgment, and according to the statement of his own committee counsel, was motivated chiefly by a desire to get into the act.

On the other hand, the retired judges of the federal bench are required under the pension plan to give their services to the country when needed. Such outstanding and impartial jurists as Learned Hand, Owen D. Roberts, Augustus Hand and all Republicans are not only subject to call but would be delighted to help their fellow citizens cut through the present fog of charge and countercharge to ascertain the truth.

GOOD WILL SLIPS

In the four months following Dr. Milton Eisenhower's whirlwind South American junket, Pan-American relations have slipped to their lowest point since U.S. Marines occupied Nicaragua, 20 years ago. And U.S. diplomats report that things are still on the downgrade all along the one-time "good neighbor" front.

Although newspaper and magazine stories played up the fact that Buenos Aires was included in the doctor's itinerary only at the last minute and with "reluctance," nevertheless citizens of other republics were surprised to observe his eager chumminess with Dictator Peron.

Moreover, U.S.-Argentine relations since then seem to get more official attention than that paid to other countries.

Latin Americans have remarked, perhaps a bit cynically, that Washington seems painfully anxious for a kind word from the man who has done more than anyone else outside the Kremlin to foster anti-American sentiment. And taking into account the events which came just before the new try at U.S.-Argentine rapprochement, the rest of South America couldn't be blamed if they never accepted another high-minded U.S. pronouncement at face value.

THE NEIGHBORS SAY

Stuart Bohacek Paging Albert Einstein

By MONA B. PARKER

Last year Red Jensen of Rushville bought an old school bus with the idea of converting it into a hunting and fishing cabin. With conversion complete, he enjoyed the fruits of his labor this year on the shore of Smith Lake. With a double bunk in one end and space for a cot, he has ample room for fellow enthusiasts. Some of the seats have been turned facing each other, with a table built in the middle. A gas stove with an oven, a cupboard for dishes and utensils and a week-end jaunt has what the Sheridan County Star describes as all the comforts of home.

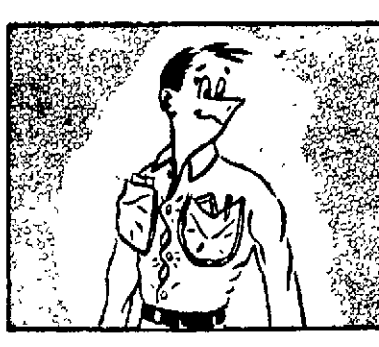

Frank Tauriella was one of the few in the Fillmore County neighborhood who came home with a pheasant. He thought so much of his trophy that he wanted to wait for a special occasion to serve it. Last Sunday was that occasion, and Mrs. Tauriella had the bird all tucked away in the oven and preparations under way for a big dinner. Busy with other things, she put her hunter-spouse in charge of watching.

"Really," said the News, "there isn't much to operating these new gadgets in the kitchen—just a few buttons and clocks, etc." But Mr. T. became absorbed in the morning paper, forgot the bird, and "by the time Frank got back to the oven, his Sunday dinner was well done."

Esther Künkel of Osceola called the Record to stop the word ad calling attention to the "Moscow" ducks she had for sale. Russian ducks were not much to the readers' liking, although the advertiser reported considerable inquiry. The wording had been misinterpreted from handwriting which listed "Muscovy." When the McCarthy committee gets through with that one, it might start in on Rhode Islands Reds.

"Roses in December" might very well give way to "raspberries in November" in Hooper. Mrs. Charles Tiedeman picked ripe red ones from her bushes there recently. The Burwell Tribune had ripe strawberries picked from the garden of Mrs. Sam Hesselgesser on display in the office. . . . And in Kearney W. E. Davis, too, had several sprigs of red raspberries to show, as well as some strawberries and violet blooms. Early in November he had picked lima beans, string beans, tomatoes, strawberries and raspberries from his garden, leaving him to wonder if he perhaps can harvest fresh garden truck for his Christmas dinner. . . .

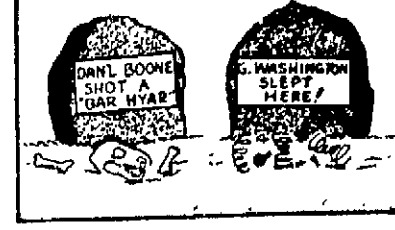

Fashion note from Arch ("The Unshaven") Jarrell to the Grand Island Independent's masculine readers: "With vests going out of style, the next few years will be known as the 'Age of the Bulging Shirt Pocket.'"

Stu Bohacek of the Wilber Republican was pondering editorially and paternally over his small daughter's expression. "A ke-away" in her mathematical entanglements. Careful listening convinced him that "take-away" is the present second-grade equivalent of what he once knew as "minus." It wasn't too long before he became involved in verifying that eight take-away three is five; six take-away four is two, and on and on.

What worries him now, though, is that the little miss will soon be approaching her "gazintax" and he is honest in his admission that he was never very sharp at division.

Things are getting tough all over. There was the Hastings third-grader, for instance, who advised his parents that he had so many worries that "if something happens now that I ought to worry about, I just can't get to it till next week!"

Gering Courier Editor Warren C. Wood has been attending air-ground operations school in North Carolina and notes that "Down this way they put historical markers for most anything and we have-seed tourists eat 'em up. If Dan'l Boone killed a 'bar hyar' there's a marker, and plenty of places marked where G. Washington snoozed. We're mighty weak on that project in Nebraska. Right in the valley we have probably 30 or more really historical sites that few tourists (and probably natives of the valley) ever see."

Editorial dignity takes a beating from all corners, sooner or later. Jack Lough of the Albion News climbed into a hayrack at a farm sale the other day, the better to take a picture of the crowd. Auctioneer Leon Nelson swung a hand in his direction and belloyed to the appreciative listeners:

"Now, what am I offered for this manure spreader!"

The People Speak

Editor's Note: Be brief. Limit letters to 200 words or less. Letters signed by a pen name or initials must be accompanied by writer's name and address. Letters represent only contributor's view.

The Man, McCarthy

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: I've just read this morning's Star (Nov. 25) with the big headline referring to McCarthy. I didn't hear the senator's speech last night, and as I read The Star's coverage I decided it was just as well I had missed it. The man makes me so angry and as I ponder over his words, I'm gradually left with a sickening feeling that reaches to the very marrow of my bones. I'm scared stiff of that man. He really frightens me terribly.

I know very little of politics. I voted for the first time last November. I listened to the speeches of the candidates and based my decision almost solely upon the quality of those speeches. I voted for Adlai in spite of the worship I felt for Ike as our national hero. And since that time, events have proven to me that I made the correct choice. I felt a little sick over the outcome of that election, but now seeing McCarthy beginning to vent his power, I'm just plain scared. That boy is already sending propaganda through the mails outlining his cause—his rather distorted viewpoints, it seems to me.

Perhaps I am overly concerned and perhaps my viewpoint is distorted, too, but I'm worried and would like to fight the senator from Wisconsin with all my body and soul. But what can a body do? I feel so darned helpless.

MRS. R. G. DAVIS

Broken Bow, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Well, Joe McCarthy has made another speech and the Republican party has lost the respect of several million more Americans. If the GOP is determined to commit suicide—and it certainly seems as if they are hell-bent to that end—then all they need to do is to give McCarthy more rope and he'll hang himself and all the rest of the Republicans with him. Certainly anyone with the brains to recognize the speech for what it was, just another line of the same old hate and smear campaign.

The quack doctors in Washington so busily engaged in purging the Communists out of the government remind me of the following incident. When I was a small child, our hired man was bitten by a rattlesnake. A neighbor, a sort of know-it-all, who happened to be present at the time insisted that he knew exactly what to do, so he proceeded to cut a deep gash in the victim's leg to "draw" out the poison. The poison was "drawn" out all right, as was also several pints of good red blood. The poor guy nearly bled to death and later lost the use of the leg all because of the bungling stupidity of this man. Moral: Sometimes the cure is worse than the disease.

READER

Blatant Bungler

Dawson, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: That he blows! Nebraska's great bungler is spouting off again—or is it "still"? He boasts that he is the only admitted politician among our state senators. He surely strikes us as the most typical political opportunist. We wonder.

the sawdust trail—those specialists in stupidity and sheer nonsense. He calls them evangelists. They reform few and convert none—not even themselves. We see no good reason for Gov. Crosby's joining the motley crowd.

Last November we voted for Mr. Raacke, the governor's unsuccessful opponent. We didn't like the antics of some of his fellow Republicans including the blatant bungler and the one who preceded Crosby as governor. We're pleased to find Crosby a fellow traveler of sensible men like Raacke.

We trust that we belong to the great majority of Nebraskans, the sort of people of whom Lincoln was thinking when he observed: "God must love the common people. Otherwise he wouldn't have made so many of them." For politicians, or just plain, good citizens performing Nebraska's civic affairs, we choose quiet, sober, businesslike, Christian gentlemen like Crosby and Raacke. To us, real evangelists are free, common people like them in every walk, station and circumstance of life who live quietly, confidently and resolutely by the direction of their God-given common sense revealed by conscience devoid of offense. They convert many more of us to honesty, integrity and uprightness than all the motley band of blatant bunglers temporarily reformed—and without so much fuss, muss and bother.

We like the governor and the good bipartisan company he keeps. We find him good company as well as a good governor.

Of Men And Things

Some of the anticipated theatrics of the appearance of Canada's "man of mystery" seemed to be on their way out the window as a result of the conditions attached to the permission given United States Senate committees to question Igor Gouzenko, who single-handed made it possible for the Canadian government to uproot a Russian spy ring, and to aid the United States in a similar undertaking. It was Gouzenko, a cipher clerk in the Russian embassy in Canada, who furnished the invaluable information.

If the congressional committees faced a blackout upon what at times has become a three-ring circus, the brief thumbnail sketch of Gouzenko which the Associated Press provided should satisfy that segment of the American public which demands its sensations. Gouzenko is a brave man. He has contributed his bit to civilization far beyond the ordinary line of duty. In 1945 he fled from the Russian embassy at Ottawa and turned over 105 secret documents to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. It was these documents which exposed a Communist spy ring in Canada, and it was his testimony that resulted in the conviction of 11 men and women on spy charges. Since that day back in 1945 he has lived in six different dwellings under at least two false names. His own children do not know their own name, probably never will. Each of Gouzenko's new identities, the Associated Press reported, were chosen with care; Gouzenko himself was supplied with a new country of origin, given a passport, birth certificates for himself, his wife and children, and also a carefully prepared biography which he memorized. Its details correspond with his present age, skills, aptitudes and general situation. It is not difficult in the circumstances to understand why Canada had and still has some doubts as to the wisdom of bringing Gouzenko into the full flame of the spotlight provided by these congressional interrogations. Canada underwrote Gouzenko's personal safety, along with that of his family. Thus far the Canadian government has made good its pledge to him. Nor is it difficult to understand the one limitation Canada places upon any questioning of him. It insists upon having the final say as to what portion of Gouzenko's story will be made public, if any, a reasonable condition. It would appear to us, although unacceptable to the chairman of one of the committees.

What To Make Public

We seem to have been guilty of doing a little too much talking to please our neighbors and good friends to the north. Not only were the Canadians determined to have the final word with respect to what information furnished by its man of mystery is to be made public in event of questioning, but the Canadian government had its say with respect to discrepancies in the controversy over the late Harry Dexter White, a discrepancy for which Attorney General Herbert Brownell and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover apparently were responsible.

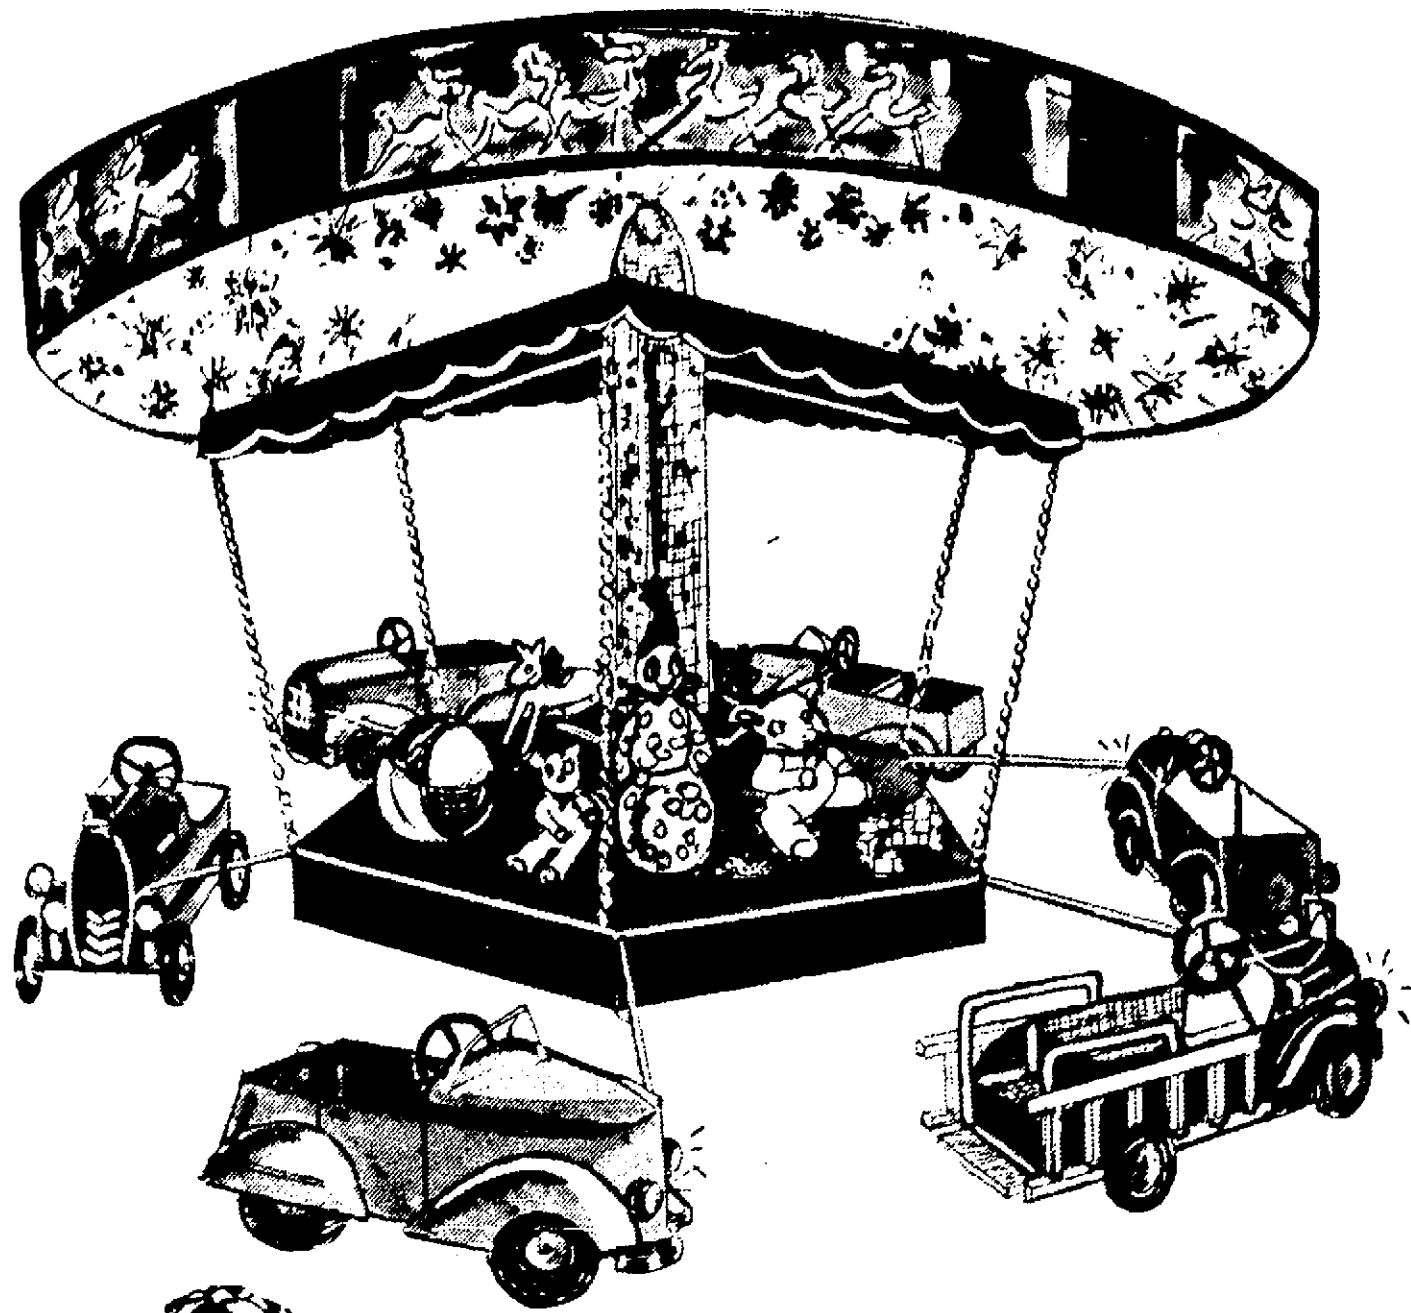

It was not a highly placed Canadian but a security officer for another country—not Canada—who contacted the FBI in 1945 about White. At the session of the Canadian Parliament, there was no identification of the man or the nation he represented. So once again it appears that the attorney general and possibly the director of the FBI should eat their words. For one occupying the post Mr. Brownell does, it is doubly humiliating to discover the Canadian government feels called upon to correct him publicly.

What next? Who knows? In all this hubbub, with Gouzenko himself indicating that he has no new information to give us, and at best can only tell us of Russian procedure as he knew it when associated with the Russian embassy, it would not be unnatural, if a lot of people beyond our boundaries were laughing at us. Here we are, the most powerful country in the world, by the facts of simple geography enjoying at least an equal advantage in security against Russian attack. And there are times when we do not only appear to be the most powerful, but almost the most jittery.

Case Of Mistaken Identity

It was not a highly placed Canadian but a security officer for another country—not Canada—who contacted the FBI in 1945 about White. At the session of the Canadian Parliament, there was no identification of the man or the nation he represented. So once again it appears that the attorney general and possibly the director of the FBI should eat their words. For one occupying the post Mr. Brownell does, it is doubly humiliating to discover the Canadian government feels called upon to correct him publicly.

International Stock Show Opens Friday

Young Set To Compete Saturday

CHICAGO (INS)—More than 10,000 of the nation's farmland bluebloods gathered in Chicago Thursday for the 54th annual International Livestock Exposition opening Friday night.

The finest cattle, horses, sheep and swine will go through their paces for top honors.

The big show will be launched with a horse show featuring mounts from 32 states and Canada.

The young set takes the spotlight Saturday. The junior judging contest will include contestants from 38 state colleges and universities. Farm youths will compete in the junior feeding event.

The exposition opens for the first time in its history on a Friday night instead of a Saturday morning. More than 1,200 classes will be judged, compared with the first exposition's 600 classes, and more than $120,000 in premiums will be offered, compared with $75,000.

MRS. SADIE CHRESTENSEN

ATKINSON—Funeral services were held here for Mrs. Sadie Chrestensen, 89, who died in a local hospital. Burial was in the Eastern cemetery. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. C. C. Rumer of Atkinson and Mrs. Sutton Evans in California.

Chadron Students Attend Home Ec Meet In Colorado

CHADRON, Neb. (Lincoln Star Special) — Six Chadron State students and two sponsors attended a recent home economics province convention in Fort Collins, Colo.

A highlight of the convention was a panel discussion on "Home Economics around the World." The members of the panel were natives of foreign countries.

Those who attended the conference were Jeanne Dohse of Gordon, Esther Marelich of Hot Springs, S. D., Wilma Purdie of Torrington, Wyo., Ruby and Ruth Wright of Crawford and Betty Yeakum of Chadron. Miss Pauline Bateman and Miss Madge Versteegh, both of the Chadron State faculty, were sponsors of the group.

States Asked To Enter Suit On Video Tax

DES MOINES (AP)—Iowa Atty. Gen. Leo A. Hoegh Thursday asked the nation's 47 other attorneys general to join him in a suit to determine if a state-owned television station is subject to federal income taxes.

The federal department of internal revenue has ruled that Iowa State College station WOI-TV at Ames must pay income tax on "profits" from its commercial income.

The question, Hoegh said, is whether the station "owned and operated for education purposes, is subject to tax on its net income."

Hoegh explained the station uses income from its network affiliations to finance its educational programs and for expansion.

In a letter to other attorneys general, Hoegh suggested that all those faced with a similar problem join forces to get a U.S. tax court ruling.

Burlington Sued For $9,603 In Accident

FALLS CITY, Neb. (AP)—The Milk House Cheese Corp., an Illinois corporation, has sued the Burlington Railroad for $9,603.57 in damages as the outgrowth of an accident occurring March 7, 1952.

One of the firm's trucks collided with a Burlington engine at the south edge of Dawson during a heavy snow storm. The cheese firm claims that the Burlington was negligent in that its crossing signal was not located where it could be seen readily and further alleges the engineer did not ring his bell or blow his whistle upon approaching the crossing.

3 New Poultry Plants Going Up At Nebraska City

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb. — Poultry plant expansion in the Nebraska City territory would indicate that the field must be wide open for this particular phase of farm operation, says A. H. DeLong, extension agricultural agent of Otoe County.

Three new plants are being placed into operation. Gibbs Hatchery, who has under construction a laying house 40 by 120 feet, believes that there are unlimited opportunities for broiler production in this area, particularly since there is an ample supply of feed.

Lowery Produce has a well equipped new building measuring 40 by 250 feet which they placed into production the first of the month with ten thousand chicks.

Omaha's Chamber Membership Hits New Record Mark

OMAHA (AP)—The annual Omaha Chamber of Commerce membership drive held last week has brought chamber membership to the highest mark in history, it was disclosed.

The drive added 1,071 new members to the group, exceeding the 1,050 goal by 21. This brought the total membership to a record 5,169.

New memberships also provided the additional funds needed to meet the $225,000 budget for the chamber this year.

7 New Irrigation Wells Are Added To York County

YORK, Neb.—Seven new irrigation wells have been added to York County in the past 30 days according to Alvan R. Hecht, agricultural extension agent.

Three of these were in Brown township on the farms of Dan Buller, Henry A. Epp and Ted Schmidt; two in the Blue River bottom land area on the Clyde Bailey and Orville Hoffschneider farms; and the last two were put down last week on farms owned by Bruce Pence and Bert Smith near York.

Hecht says the two wells drilled in the Blue River bottom area show great possibility for additional wells as in each case it was only necessary to drill to depth of 80 feet. The well on the Hoffschneider farm produced 1400 gallons of water with a total lift of only 21 feet; the well on the Bailey farm produced 1,550 gallons with a total lift of 42 feet.

The well drilled on the Pence farm was the deepest—241 feet. Considerable difficulty was experienced in the locating of this well, Hecht says. The first time the driller set over a large boulder at the bottom of the well and had to move and drill the second hole. Here nearly all the gravel was above the water table but by going deep into the lower strata of gravel and rock they were able to produce a good well producing 950 gallons, Hecht concludes.

Services Friday For Retired Fire Captain

OMAHA (INS)—Funeral services will be held Friday for George Cogan, 69-year-old retired fire captain. He was severely injured in Omaha's 1933 Millard Hotel fire which claimed the lives of seven firemen.

He was rescued after being trapped several hours in the debris-filled basement of the hotel in sub-zero weather. He recovered from severe foot and chest injuries but was forced to retire from the department. His wife survives.

State Briefs: Nativity Scene Planned At Wahoo

WAHOO—Again this year a life-size reproduction of the Nativity scene will be erected on the Saunders County Courthouse lawn, according to the Rev. E. L. Jordan. The project is sponsored by the Wahoo Chamber of Commerce.

BRIDGEPORT—Dale Walton of Bayard was re-elected president of the Morrill County Fair Association. Other officers are Cecil Rodgers of Bridgeport, vice president; Jack McDermond of Bridgeport, secretary; and Tom Burial of Bayard, Richard Juells and Dale Wright, and Bill Mitchell, all of Bridgeport, directors.

CHAPMAN—Ed Seim, 65, of Chapman, is recovering in a Grand Island hospital from the amputation of his left arm at the shoulder in a hunting accident on the Platte River near Central City. It was reported his gun went off accidentally when he was hunting alone in a duck blind. Following the accident, he walked from the river until he found help. He received an arm injury some time ago and the arm had already been amputated just below the elbow.

HOLT COUNTY, Pioneer Of Prairie Days In Nebraska, Marks 102nd Year

STUART, Neb.—Mrs. Joseph Axtell, a school girl at the time of the Civil War, this week marked her 102nd birthday anniversary. She is the oldest resident of Holt County.

Coming to the Midwest in 1866, Mrs. Axtell accompanied her family to Waverly, Ia. The move was made from New York due to the advice of a physician who urged the family to take their 15-year-old daughter, Alice (Mrs. Axtell), to the west for her health.

In 1870 the Butterfield family traveled via covered wagon from Iowa to Nebraska, settling in Holt County. They resided on a preemption claim in an improvised log-sod house.

Mrs. Axtell was married in 1887 and experienced many of the hardships of pioneer life on the prairies.

Indians appeared at the Axtell home many times, Mrs. Axtell recalls that on one occasion a band of nine Indians were invited in to her home, sat on the floor awhile and then disappeared without trouble.

The Axtells burned cowchips for fuel, and many times fought prairie fires.

During the summer Mrs. Axtell made cheese to help out the family financially, and in the winter she sold butter.

She and her daughter have made their home in Stuart for 37 years.

Until recently, Mrs. Axtell has continued to help the Wesleyan Methodist Missionary Society piece quilts. She maintains a keen interest in what her friends are doing.

Top Road Bidding Is For March

Gravel surfacing of about 20 miles of Lancaster County road will be among the projects to be included in bids which will be opened Dec. 17 by the State Highway Department.

The department also announced an extensive list of contract letting Mar. 11, which was described as the largest in Nebraska history.

The Lancaster County project will call for graveling of 5.2 miles west of Fifth, 4.2 miles north of Waverly, 4 miles north of Malcolm, and 7 miles on Highway No. 79 south of Valparaiso.

The county surfacing, which will entail the placing of 3,566 cubic yards of gravel on the roads, will be financed with county funds matched with federal aid secondary highway funds.

Contractors will also be asked to bid on gravel surfacing on seven miles of Highway No. 79 now under construction south of Valparaiso.

Other projects listed in the Mar. 11 grant letting estimated at $6,500,000 include:

1. A $125,000 project to reconstruct a 4.6-mile stretch of U. S. 251 from 1.4 miles south of O'Neill to the junction with Highway 97.

2. A $125,000 project to reconstruct a 4.6-mile stretch of U. S. 251 from 1.4 miles south of O'Neill to the junction with Highway 97.

Nebraska Courthouses

Cass Courthouse—Old And Unchanged

A number of years ago, Cass County commissioners voted to change the clock mechanism on the courthouse tower from the old weight power to a modern electric system, and this is about the only change that has taken place in the old building since it was constructed in 1891. The courthouse has essentially the same interior arrangement as it had 60 years ago—even to wooden interior shutter-shades on the windows. County officers report also that no changes in the building are planned in the future. The ornate old structure was built for a cost of $67,910, and followed plans of William Gray, Lincoln architect of the period. This courthouse replaced a wooden building which had served the county since 1863. Star Staff Photo.

Troyer Will Head Chamber At Ord

ORD, Neb. (Lincoln Star Special) — Dillo Troyer, Ord businessman, was elected president of the Ord Chamber of Commerce at the annual election of officers of the group. He succeeds Mrs. Allen Papiernik who has served the past year as the first woman to ever hold that office of the Ord organization.

Mike Yost, clothing store owner, was named vice president. Newly elected members of the board of directors are Henry Janus, Dean Misko, George Knecht and Frank Beran. Mrs. Papiernik will automatically serve on the board for one year as retiring president.

Farmers To Hear Patrolman Smith

HASTINGS, Neb. (Lincoln Star Special) — Lt. Guy Smith of the State Safety Patrol will discuss, show movies and answer questions regarding highway safety as it affects the farmer at the fourth in the farm clinic series here.

The series is under the sponsorship of the agriculture committee of the Hastings Chamber of Commerce.

"Our committee of farmers and businessmen in setting up this program, felt that the matter of safety is of vital importance, particularly as it affects farm equipment and other farm machinery moving along our highways," said Larry Roosmann, chairman of the series.

The final meeting of the series will be a family fun night on Dec. 7 to be held in the city auditorium. Joe DeMuth of Ayr will be in charge.

Oil Test Is Started In Sandrock Area

FALLS CITY, Neb. (AP)—An oil test into the Viola limestone has been started by the Sandrock Oil Co. on the old Sandrock lease, southwest of Falls City.

Years ago exceptionally good looking cores were taken from the Viola on the lease but the formation never produced profitably in that area.

Considerable interest has been built up in the venture, for in that area seven wells have produced many thousands of barrels of oil over the past 15 years. Born and Tomer Drilling Co. is putting down the well.

Struggling Med Student Finds Self In Parking Controversy

OMAHA (AP) — Lashie Potts, a struggling medical student, Thursday was in the middle of a controversy over whether police have the right to enforce parking laws in "private" parking lots for tenants of Omaha Housing Authority project.

Potts, who lives in the Terrace Home project here, trying to make ends meet for his family and education, decided to sell his 1941 model car. He said he obtained permission from the project management to park his car as dead storage in the lot until it was sold.

On Nov. 12 he found it missing, reported it stolen and learned it had been towed out by police.

$17 Towing Bill

Wednesday he had a buyer but not the car. The towing and storage bill came to $17 and Potts' wife said, "We just don't have that kind of money."

Traffic Inspector Jean C. Whinnery said the car had been towed out of the lot whose entrance bears the sign, "Private parking tenants only," after a call to the police department from the Housing Authority. No one knew just who called.

Edward M. Ouren, executive director of the OHA said that

'White Promoted Big Loan To Russia'

'Falsified' Reserves -Malone

By ROWLAND EVANS, JR.
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Malone (R-Nev) charged Thursday that the late Harry Dexter White "phonied up" estimates of U. S. strategic mineral reserves in order to promote a multi-billion dollar, post-war loan to the Soviet Union.

The loan was never made but Malone said White "deliberately under-estimated" mineral and petroleum reserves to make the loan appear attractive to the United States.

Malone made available to reporters a copy of a memorandum dated March 7, 1944, from White, then assistant secretary of the treasury, to Henry Morgenthau, then secretary of the treasury.

'Gross Underestimate'

The memorandum, which Malone said he obtained from White's official papers in a library at Princeton University recently, contained a table of reserve supplies of critical minerals in the United States which Malone said "grossly underestimated" actual reserves.

The memorandum, headed "Proposed U. S. loan to the U. S. S. R.," said: "It is evident . . . that, although our domestic reserves of petroleum, tungsten and zinc may suffice to meet consumption requirements for the next decade, they will be almost entirely dissipated by the end of that period; in the case of manganese, chrome, mercury and lead our resources are too limited to satisfy even probable domestic requirements for the next 10 years."

Malone, now in the midst of an investigation of strategic mineral resources in the United States, said the White statistics on reserves were "fake" and "sought to take advantage of the lack of public knowledge" on the difference between "proven" reserves and "estimated" reserves.

80-Year Supply

White estimated a maximum 16-year reserve of petroleum. A check by the Bureau of Mines Thursday indicated petroleum reserves total between 100 and 500 billion barrels. Bureau experts said such a reserve might last for possibly 80 years, depending on some uncertain factors, such as future demand.

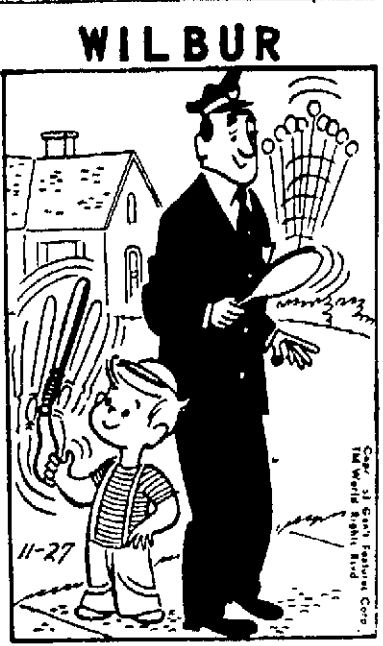

Malone said there is enough manganese in this country "to last 100 years" if "properly mined" and if the government provides the "proper incentives."

Malone is an ardent advocate of the Western mining industry. He is scornful of arguments that some American mineral reserves are of such low-grade and would cost so much to mine that it is more economical to resort to imports.

Issued Challenge

During a recent hearing he challenged some Bureau of Mines estimates of reserves, saying they were too low. Experts from the Bureau testified the United States is dependent on sources outside the Western Hemisphere for at least part of its needs in 21 key minerals. Emphasizing this estimate was based on present conditions, they said the list could be cut to seven if processes could be developed to use low grade ores and if it were economically feasible to do so.

Malone contended the Western Hemisphere could become practically self-sufficient as to minerals in a new war.

The White memorandum conceded that "our reserves of strategic materials could be somewhat expanded, given an increase of price to make possible further development of marginal resources," but continued:

"The necessity of growing U. S. dependence on foreign sources of supply, in order to satisfy anticipated postwar industrial requirements and to maintain adequate security reserves, is inescapable."

Seen Flashes, Falling Stars? Let Iowan Know

The unusually large number of brilliant meteors which have been reported over sections of the Midwest this fall has led to a request from scientific quarters for a witness report on these phenomena.

C. C. Wylie, professor of astronomy at the University of Iowa, has announced he is "particularly interested in receiving reports on the bright meteors of Nov. 9 and 15."

Prof. Wylie called particular attention to the bright meteor which was seen early on the morning of Nov. 15 by many Nebraska and Iowa residents. "Brilliant meteors, bright enough to light the sky like a flash of lightning or to light farm yards like the moon, have been reported to us from Iowa and neighboring states."

Prof. Wylie asked that all persons who witnessed such meteors write to the Department of Astronomy at the University of Iowa describing what they saw. The department is particularly interested in knowing the exact direction taken by the meteor across the sky.

LINCOLN PROVES ITS SUPERIORITY, OUTPERFORMS ALL COMPETITORS IN STOCK CAR FIELD — WINS 7 OUT OF FIRST 10 PLACES

Stock car champions of the Mexican Pan-American Race last year, Lincolns again captured 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th places this year. In fact, in a field of more than 50 stock cars, seven out of ten prize-winners were Lincolns.

Called the toughest automotive test in the world, the route of this 1,912-mile race covers every kind of highway. From near Mexico's southern boundary to the U.S. border, the route climbs steep mountain grades, turns, twists, curves its way through foothills and winds up over long flat stretches of desert highway. Road elevations range from near sea-level to more than 10,000 feet. In every driving situation, Lincoln proved itself superior — a great tribute to the precision engineering and rugged stamina of its 205-hp V-8, the easy handling and steering control of its proven ball-joint front suspension, and the stability and road-holding qualities of the great Lincoln chassis.

And now a new Lincoln is on the way — the new 1954 Lincoln. It is more luxurious than ever. Its handling qualities, roadability — yes, even its famous V-205 hp engine — have been improved. You'll want to see this great new Lincoln, Thursday, December 3rd. And even more, you'll want to drive it. See for yourself why Lincoln alone is the one fine car designed for modern living — powered for modern driving — and twice-proved in the world's toughest road race.

See the New 1954 Lincoln at your dealer's... Thursday, December 3rd!

Fighting Over, But Blood Still Needed

800 Lincolmites
Regular Donors

By EARL DYER
Star Staff Writer
"Are you a regular donor?"
"Well, uh... This is my second time."
"Oh, then you're a regular."

The slightly embarrassed newsman was sitting opposite a small graying, middle-aged man, in the nearly empty canteen of the Red Cross bloodmobile. Just the tone of voice of the visitor, and the way in which he said he came in every three months to give his pint of blood, made the listener know that he was proud of this.

From now on, that newspaperman is also a "regular." Not so much because the Red Cross sends regular pleading letters, or because "the boys in khaki need it," but simply because the blood's needed.

For it is not the "Red Cross" organization that needs 150 pints of blood a month. It is the people the Red Cross serves. The need for whole blood, and the things made from blood, has jumped by leaps and bounds in recent years. Time was when blood was used in only a few very serious emergencies. But take a look at the following, which is only a partial list of the uses for blood.

Transfusions of whole blood, used now in a wide variety of cases.

Plasma, used on the battlefield and other places where whole blood is not available for immediate use.

Plasma, for military and civilian defense stockpiles. It can be stored for an emergency.

Gamma globulin, used to reduce the crippling effects of polio. It takes a pint of blood to produce one "shot" of GG, to save one child from crippling.

Lincoln has measured up well in providing its part of the needed blood. Citizens of the city have donated just over 7,000 pints of blood since the beginning of the program 2½ years ago, and the month-by-month quotas have been pretty well met.

But since the end of the Korean War, apparently because people think of blood donations as largely for battlefield use, the number of donors has slackened. In October this year, the quota was met. But during the summer months preceding, it often was not.

About 9,000 persons have offered blood, out of several tens of thousands in Lincoln who could have offered it. Only about 800 persons have come back to give a second pint. And only about 200 have donated five pints or more.

The Red Cross has only about 140 persons who have indicated they would give blood every three months if needed. (More frequent donations are not allowed, for medical reasons.)

A lot of people—more than 150 volunteers—have given heavily of their time to operate the bloodmobile. A one-day stand by the mobile unit requires nearly 40 persons, to keep records, assist nurses, operate the canteen (free cake and coffee), etc.

The urgent need is for more people willing to take the necessary hour to give the blood itself—the pint that will treat the wounded GI, or help build a stockpile of plasma for defense, or provide a single injection of gamma globulin. Even in Lincoln, in case of a sudden epidemic of polio, shots for the city's children would require many thousands of pints of blood. And the gamma globulin must be ready when the emergency occurs.

The next visit of the bloodmobile is Monday, Nov. 30, noon to 6 p.m., at the Scottish Rite Tem-

Cole To Ask Breeders To Headquarter Here

Sen. D. J. Cole of Merriman, a Nebraska delegate to the National American Aberdeen Angus Breeders Association convention at Chicago on Dec. 2, announces that he will present to the meeting L. R. 1 passed by the last Legislature. The resolution urges the association to move its headquarters to Nebraska, either to Lincoln or Omaha. Lincoln is given the preference because of the location of the University of Nebraska.

First Non-Sectarian Union Service Is Held

A common creed of thanksgiving was shared by some 300 Jews, Catholics and Protestants at the first non-sectarian union service Thursday morning at the Lincoln High School Auditorium. Rabbi Abba M. Fineberg of the South Street Temple opened the services with a "Call To Thanksgiving" in these words: "Let us give thanks unto the Lord, for He is good. His mercy is everlasting, and His truth endureth to all generations."

The story of Thanksgiving through the ages was then presented with Rev. Charles Kemp of the First Christian Church as narrator and George Randol as Westminister Presbyterian Church reader. Rev. Kemp replaced Father Jerome Murray, superintendent of the Lincoln Diocese Catholic schools, who could not be in town for the services as planned.

Following the choir's rendition of "Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem," the Rev. Thomas Huxtable of Eastridge Presbyterian Church led the congregation in a Thanksgiving litany.

The "Ave Maria," played by Muriel Joy on the violin and John Carter Cole at the piano, was the prelude to the closing hymn, "America the Beautiful," sung by the entire group.

The program, under the direction of the Lincoln Council of Churches, was planned by the Rev. John Douglas Clyde of Westminister Presbyterian Church and Prof. L. E. Mattingly of Nebraska Wesleyan. The choir, under the direction of Prof. Oscar Bennett of Nebraska Wesleyan

But The Week Isn't Over--

Guests From Tulsa

Arriving a few days ago to spend the Thanksgiving week in Lincoln were Mrs. Robert Faulkner and her daughter, Caroline, who, with Mr. Faulkner, are the house guests of Mrs. Faulkner's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Robinson, and her cousin, Mrs. Merlin James, and Mr. James. On Wednesday morning Mrs. James complimented Mrs. Faulkner at a morning coffee at her home.

Is Bride On Thursday

Spreading arrangements of white chrysanthemums, a tall lighted white candles, appointed the chancel of First Evangelical Lutheran Church at Wilber, for the marriage of Miss Carole Ann Wanek, daughter of Mrs. Lumir Wanek of Wilber, and the late Mr. Wanek, and Duane D. Dorman, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Dorman of Lincoln, Thursday evening, Nov. 26. The 7:30 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. H. C. Cordis.

As the candles were lighted by Miss Karen Kay Dorman and Miss Barbara Bea Dorman, sisters of the bridegroom, Kenneth E. Vosika of Wilber sang "Always," and "The Lord's Prayer." He was accompanied by Miss Barbara Yokel of Friend, organist, who also played the wedding music.

Miss Janice Lee Buhr of Wilber was the maid of honor and wore a frock in the latest fashion of a velvet strapless bodice and full skirt of net over tulle. Costumed identically in gold net and velvet were the bridesmaids, Miss Marlene Glantz of Wilber, and Miss Betty Remington of Omaha. Brief, cuffed jackets of velvet completed their ensembles, and they carried nosegays of white pompons. The flower girl was Miss Rita Louise Smejd, and Terry Keith Hoffman was ringbearer.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Marvin D. Wanek of Omaha, and appeared in a gown of traditional ivory satin. Appliqued medallions of Venice lace, dotted with rhinestones, framed the off-shoulder yoke of illusion, and long sleeves accented the torso bodice. Shired into extreme fullness, the skirt extended into a long train, and her veil of illusion was held by an illusion cap, banded with satin and trimmed with rosettes of the lace. She carried a white Bible marked with a white orchid.

We Hear That--

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Ulrich are the parents of a son, Jeffrey Allen, who was born on Saturday, Nov. 21, at Lincoln General Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Ulrich (Marie Query) are former students at the University of Nebraska. Young Jeffrey's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ulrich of Grand Island, and Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Query of Benedict.

THE GONE but not forgotten holiday—Thanksgiving—has been checked off the calendar for another year, but the week is far from over, at least from the standpoint of activity—There are weddings on Saturday—the high noon ceremony for Miss Harriett Ackerson and James Pomesl Jr.—and evening weddings for Miss Adele Coryell and Donald J. Hall—Miss Sondra Lotman and Richard Rosenthal—There also

YM-YW Plan Saturday Dance

The regular Saturday night dance of the YM-YW will be held at 9 o'clock in the Green Room of the YMCA. Jukebox music will be provided and all young adults are invited to attend.

are weddings on Sunday—and the wedding files are growing very, very fat with holiday weddings.

And of course between now and Saturday evening there are many festive affairs for Miss Coryell's attendants—and for Mr. Hall's best man and ushers—to say nothing of a luncheon honoring the families of the bride-elect and Mr. Hall's family—and a pre-nuptial dinner Friday evening at Hotel Cornhusker—

BUT THERE are other things than weddings this week-end—The 100 club is dining and dancing at Hotel Cornhusker Saturday evening—with "Fashion Fantasy" as a motif—

The nine guest couples invited to the party are Mr. and Mrs. William E. Lucas, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Luhe, Dr. and Mrs. Lee Stover, Dr. and Mrs. Lloyd Schmaderke, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Barth, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Campbell, Dr. and Mrs. Louis Gogola, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Turner, and Dr. and Mrs. John R. Thompson of Auburn.

ON THE party calendar for next Sunday is the senior tea for which 11 Lincoln high school seniors will be hostesses at the home of Miss Barbara Curry. In addition to Miss Curry the hostess list includes Miss Patricia Deahn, Miss Darlene Luse, Miss Catherine Clark, Miss Beverly Craig, Miss Delores Ehrlich, Miss JoAnn Butz, Miss Nancy Daharsh, Miss Marguerite Whitaker, Miss Karen Bahr and Miss Sharon Woods. The 150 guests have been invited for the hours between 2 o'clock and 5 o'clock.

UNDERSTAND that some of the guests who were due to arrive for Thanksgiving sent their regrets at the last moment—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howell of Palm Beach, Fla., had planned to arrive Wednesday evening to spend the Thanksgiving week-end as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Richard Meyer—but it seems that the Howells are building a new home—and an architect was planning for a conference—so that was that.

OUR GUEST book tells us, however, that there were other guests who did arrive for Thanksgiving—Mr. and Mrs. James Edward M. Thomson of Columbus, for instance—and their four children, Jimmy, Kathleen, Johnny and Janet, who dined with Mr. Thomson's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. M. Thomson, at the University club last evening.

ALSO DOWN from Omaha on Thursday were Mr. and Mrs. Elton Loucks, their daughters, The Misses Pattie and Barbara, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold LaMar, who were the dinner guests on Thanksgiving day of Mrs. George Rohman at Hotel Cornhusker. Lincoln guests included Mr. and Mrs. LaMar's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. (Ky) Rohman, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rohman, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Weishel, Mrs. E. H. Dierks and Miss Ruth Louise Dierks.

Sponsor Drive

Members of the Lancaster County Junior Red Cross sponsored a Thanksgiving collection of canned goods for the Cedar Home. More than 1,500 cans were collected by the pupils of the seven junior and senior high schools in the city. Transportation was provided by the Red Cross motor corps, of which Mrs. Myron Weil is chairman.

DAR Board

The regular meeting of the board of Deborah Avery Chapter. Daughters of the American Revolution, will be held at 10 o'clock Friday morning at the Hotel Cornhusker. Mrs. Kenneth Lawson, chapter regent, will preside.

Thanksgiving Guests

Down from Omaha for the Thanksgiving week-end are Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson who are the house guests of Mr.

Anderson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Anderson. Mrs. Anderson will be remembered in campus circles as the former Ruth Furney, Pi Beta Phi.

Trio From Chicago

A very popular guest trio, including Mr. and Mrs. James Baylor and their son, James William ("Willie")—for short arrived late Wednesday evening to spend the Thanksgiving week-end as the house guests of Mr. Baylor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Baylor.

Madam Chairman

Deborah Avery, DAR, 10 o'clock board meeting at the Hotel Cornhusker. Lincoln Hemerocallis Society, 1 o'clock at the home of Mrs. George Swingle, 3150 So. 31st. Frances Willard WCTU, noon luncheon and meeting at the YWCA.

Miss Helen Reifschneider, Thanksgiving Day Bride

The marriage of Miss Helen Reifschneider, daughter of Mrs. Philip Reifschneider, to J. K. Emery of Scottsbluff, son of Mrs. Perle Emery, also of Scottsbluff, was solemnized at a high noon ceremony on Thursday, Nov. 26, at the home of the bride's mother.

The Rev. Rex Knowles, Presbyterian minister on the University of Nebraska campus, read the lines of the double ring service in the presence of only the immediate families.

The bride, who was unattended, appeared in a daytime length frock of off-white faille trimmed with black velvet.

Her ensemble was completed with a small black velvet hat, and her flowers were orchids fashioned into a corsage. Following the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast for the families.

Mrs. Emery received both her A.B. and her master's degrees at the University of Nebraska, and now is director of special education for the Scottsbluff public schools, and a member of the Scottsbluff junior college faculty.

Mr. Emery was graduated from the University of Colorado at Boulder, and is on the news staff of the Scottsbluff Star Herald.

Srb Sees 'Starting Things' If Bicameral Plan Adopted

OMAHA (AP)—Hugo Srb, clerk of the Nebraska Legislature, predicted "some startling things will happen" if the state returns to a bicameral legislative system.

Srb told the Omaha Junior Chamber of Commerce he is against the change.

He referred specifically to a petition which calls for a public vote on a constitutional amendment to replace the present unicameral with a two-house Legislature.

The petition is being circulated throughout the state by both Republican and Democratic party leaders.

Srb said he "could not imagine any one in Douglas County voting for that amendment."

One For Douglas

If the amendment were approved, he said, Douglas County would probably be represented in the reorganized State Senate by one man while less-populous Otoe County would get two senators.

Srb said this was based on calculations furnished by Dr. John P. Senning, political science professor emeritus at the University of Nebraska.

The petition proposes a Senate of 30 to 40 members.

Assuming there would be 22 members, Dr. Senning had figured eight senators would be distributed among each of the four congressional districts.

"In your district," Srb said, "you have five counties. You'll divide up eight senators. Three counties will get two senators. Who will they be? According to this proposal, it will have to be the three counties which are the largest geographically."

Two For Otoe

That would mean, he said, two senators apiece for Otoe, Cass and Washington Counties, and one each for Douglas and Sarpy Counties.

Douglas County has 35 times as many people as Otoe," Srb said, "but Otoe would have twice as much representation in the senate. Does that make sense to you?"

Srb said, "Everywhere you go, other states look with envy" at the Nebraska Unicameral. "We've got a good thing here. We ought to keep it that way."

Mrs. Palmer Rites In Omaha Friday

Texas Clinches Tie For Loop Title In 21-12 Win

A Pass, A Fumble, And A Recovery
A pass intended for Cornell's Stan Intihar in the second period of Thursday's University of Pennsylvania game is broken up by Penn's Ken Smith and George Trautman as it jumps off Intihar's shoulder into the hands of Penn's Jerry Robinson. (AP Wirephoto.)

Penn Closes Career Of Munger With 13-13 Tie

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Penn's only 1953 invasion of the Ivy Football League wound up in a 7-7 tie with traditional rival Cornell Thursday in as tough a battle as the Quakers experienced in any of their eight previous "poison ivy" games this season.

The deadlock proved a rather nebulous ending to George Munger's 16-year career as head coach at Pennsylvania. The 44-year-old Munger's retirement—announced last spring—became effective at the end of this 60th annual Thanksgiving Day game against Cornell, this year's Ivy League champions.

The only scoring came in the second quarter when Penn's Joe Varaitis went over from the one on his fourth line plunge in five plays from the Cornell 19. Quarterback Eddie Gramigna converted to give the two-touchdown favored Quakers a 7-0 lead.

Cornell's sophomore-dominated squad struck back midway through the same period with a 60-yard pass and run play from Herb Boal, Phoenix, Ariz., junior, to sophomore Bruce Brenner, which carried the ball to Penn's one. Boal stepped across on the next play on a quarterback sneak and Jim Van Buren of Atlanta, Ga., converted the tying point.

The surprise tie completed Penn's 1953 log with three victories, five defeats and this tie, while Cornell wound up with four wins, three defeats and the tie.

A clipping penalty on a Penn punt helped set up the Quakers' only touchdown. The penalty set Cornell back to its one, from where Dick Meade punted to Ken Smith, who returned 15 yards to the Cornell 19.

Varaitis smacked through the middle for a first down on the nine. The big fullback barged through four more yards, and Bob Felver carried three more to the Cornell two. Varaitis made one, then on fourth down barely made his way over for the touchdown.

After an exchange of punts with Cornell taking possession on its 39, Boal arched a long pass to Brenner who was standing all alone 10 yards behind the closest Penn defender on the Quaker 35. Brenner raced down the left sideline, apparently headed for the five yard line and Brenner's knee hit the turf at the one. On the next play Boal drove over.

It was the first time Penn failed to win against an Ivy League opponent since Princeton's unbeaten 1951 squad d tripped the Quakers 13-7. Penn had won six games in the league since the loss to Princeton, but this was its only league game this year.

Omahan Tied For Lead In CO Tourney

FT. JACKSON, S. C. (AP)—Veteran Ed Furgol of St. Louis, Mo., and youthful Dick Knight of Omaha, Neb., tied for the first round lead Thursday in the $10,000 Columbia Open golf tournament with blazing 65's, seven strokes under par for the 7,000-yard Armed Forces course.

Smooth-swinging Bob Gadjia of Detroit, Mich., was only one stroke behind them with 66. Buddy Godwin of Asheville, N. C., was a close third with 67.

Pro Bud Williamson of the Lincoln Country Club was among the low scorers with a 35-34-69.

All told, 36 of the 133 starters finished the first 18 holes under par for an amazing low scoring spree. Fourteen others, including three amateurs, shot an even par 72.

The many low scores were more remarkable in view of the cold, penetrating southwest wind that blew from shortly before noon.

Wake Forest Trips Favored Gamecocks

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—Wake Forest's demon Deacons scored twice in the third period to break a halftime tie and hung on grimly to upend heavily favored South Carolina, the nations 15th-ranked football team, 19-13 Thursday.

The Deacons rode to victory on the passing arm of junior Quarterback Joe White. He returned to the scene of his Charlotte High School triumphs to throw two touchdown passes and set up a third score.

South Carolina went down to its third loss in 10 starts after moving back the opening kickoff 73 yards in 11 plays for a touchdown. Halfback Gene Wilson went the final yard.

The Deacons scored early in the second period, going 80 yards in 12 plays. White passed to End Bob Ondilla the last 16 yards.

In the third period Wake Forest recovered a fumble on South Carolina's 33 and on first down White hit Fullback Jim Bland in the end zone.

The winning touchdowns a few minutes later came on a five-play, 68-yard drive. Halfback Bob Frederick scoring from the two after White-Ondilla passes set it up.

With 8:25 left in the last period Gramling hit Halfback Blackie Kincaid with a 30-yard scoring pass.

Cadets, Navy Both Seeking Underdog Role

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Without a presidential guest of honor for their 54th griddiron command performance, Army meets Navy here Saturday in what promises to be a better than average fight.

Both coaches—Army's Earl Blaik and Navy's Eddie Erdelatz—claimed the underdog role but the ball handling magic of Cadet quarterback Pete Vann gave Army a slight pre-game margin.

President Eisenhower will not be among the better than 102,000 on hand for the 12:30 p.m. (CST) opening kickoff at Municipal Stadium. He is vacationing at Augusta, Ga., spurning football for his greater love, golf.

The Washington contingent will be led by Defense Secretary Wilson.

Blaik fired the opening round in the claim and counter claim battle early this week when he said, "This is the best Navy team since 1944."

Erdelatz bounced right back with, "This is the best Army team since the Doc Blanchard-Glenn Davis team."

Baylor-Rice Game Will Decide Cotton Bowl Host

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Little Delano Womack ran like a deer, Charley Brewer passed like he was shooting a rifle and a massive Texas line battered Texas A&M to a frazzle Thursday as the Longhorns carved out a 21-12 triumph to clinch a tie for the Southwest Conference football championship.

The Aggies never had a chance but never put up a tougher fight. But Texas poured the men into the game by teams to wear the Cadets down and only the breaks gave A&M an opportunity to score.

Brewer, quarterbacking Texas in his usual smart fashion, set up two touchdowns with his passing and scored the other one himself. Womack roamed for 103 yards through the fighting Aggie line.

A crowd of 42,000 watched the bitter struggle that was climaxed just before its end by the ejection of Gilmer Spring, Texas end, for smashing his knee into the face of Johnny Salyer, Aggie back. But there were no Aggie strikes and the game wound up without further incident.

Salyer was attempting to block Spring after a play had ended.

Ed Kelley ran two yards for the first Texas touchdown. Womack rammed left tackle for four yards for the second while Brewer plowed over from the Aggie four for the final.

A&M scored its first touchdown after pass interference gave it the ball on the Texas one. Bob Eastley crashed over. The second Aggie score came after a recovered fumble on the Texas 21. Elwood Kettler ran for 19 and Connie Magouirk blasted right tackle for the score.

Texas must await the result of the Rice-Baylor game Saturday to know if it will play in the Cotton Bowl or be through for the season. The Rice-Baylor winner will tie Texas for the conference title. It's Rice. Texas will be through and Rice will go to the Cotton Bowl since it beat Texas in regular season play. If it's Baylor, Texas will go to the bowl because Texas beat Baylor.

Texas A&M couldn't come close to handling the great running of Womack and the terrific line battering of Dougal Cameron, big fullback, who rolled up 69 yards in 18 bull-like rushes. But the man who directed the attack flawlessly and produced the yards when the attack bogged down was Brewer.

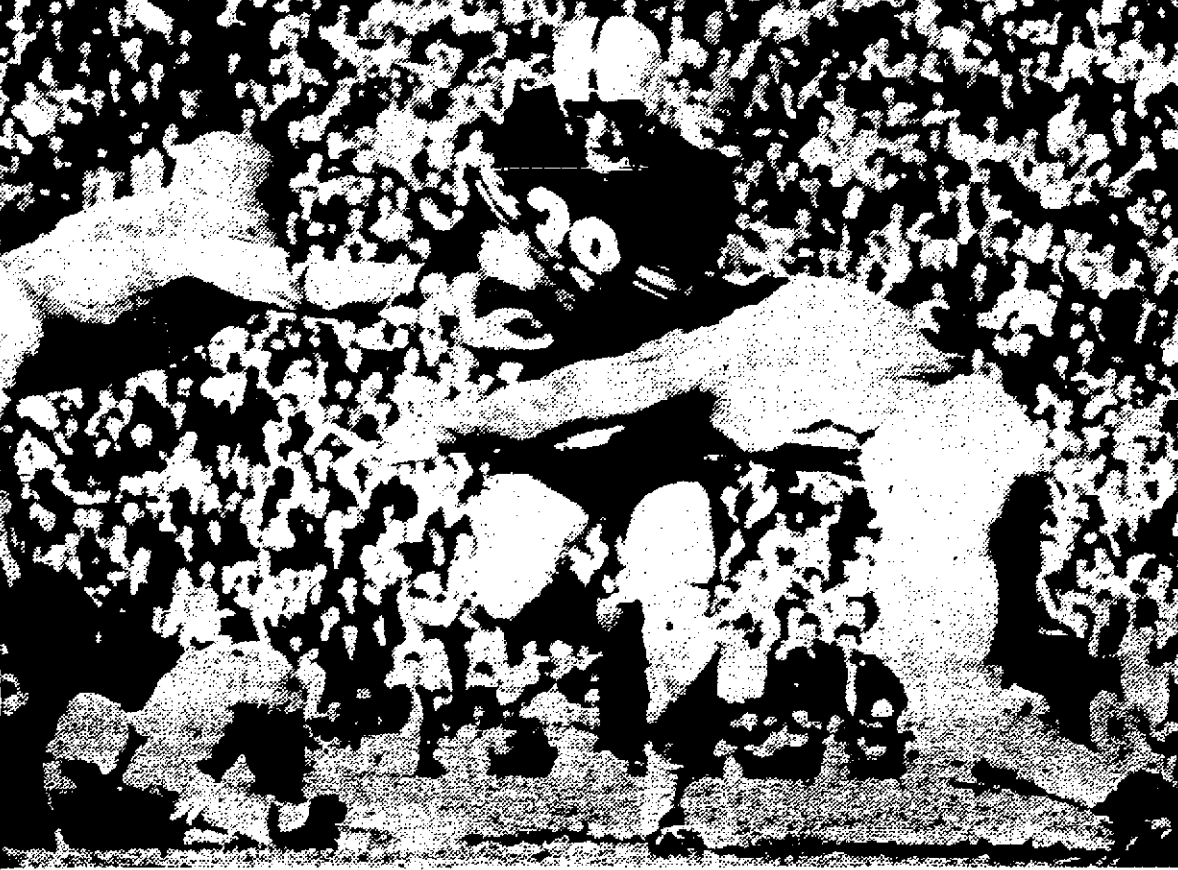

Texas hammered out 241 yards rushing and got 89 in the air. A&M had 213 on the ground and 70 passing—all by Don Ellis, the Aggies quarterback who played a fine all-around game.

Texas A&M: 7 7 7 0—21
Texas: 0 6 0 6—12
TEXAS SCORING: Touchdowns, Kelley, Womack, Brewer, Cameron, Branch.
TEXAS A&M SCORING: Touchdowns, Eastley, Magouirk.

Brown, Colgate Tie In Season Windup

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Colgate's favored Red Raiders, plagued by fumbles all afternoon, took advantage of a Brown miscue in the last quarter Thursday to strike for a touchdown and a 7-7 tie with the Bruins in the football season's windup for both teams.

The Raiders, who lost the ball on fumbles five times and handed Brown its touchdown in the first period, struck swiftly in the fourth quarter when the opportunity came. Big Mike Molog, a 6-3, 200-pound tackle pounced on the ball at midfield when Brown sophomore Tommy Thompson fumbled.

A Gain Marked Up For A&M
Connick Magouirk (39) Texas A&M back, went through right tackle for a six-yard gain before he was downed by Herb Gray (66) Texas University tackle (right) and an unidentified Texas player, in the Thanksgiving game at College Station, Tex., Thursday. Packers Stopped By 34-15 Count

By JOE FALLS
DETROIT (AP)—Lanky Cloyce Box, robbed of his blinding speed by a leg injury, came up with his best catch of the season Thursday for a dazzling 97-yard touchdown pass play which fired the Detroit Lions to a vital 34-15 victory over the Green Bay Packers in their annual Thanksgiving Day game in Briggs Stadium.

The big end slipped behind the Packers defense in the third period, gathered in Bobby Layne's lofty pass at midfield, and coasted into the Packers' end zone.

The play started officially on the Lions three-yard line, but Layne actually threw the pass some 50 yards from deep in his own end zone.

It was only the second touchdown for Box this season—but it could have been the one which saved the Lions' title hopes.

Until his spectacular catch, the Lions had been playing sluggish, uninspired football and trailed the Packers, 15-7 at the half.

But Box' catch pulled Detroit to within one point, at 15-14, and the Lions took it from there and pounded Green Bay with a 27-point second half comeback.

The victory, achieved before 52,607 fans and millions of television viewers, gave the Lions a firm hold on first place in the western division of the National Football League. Furthermore, it left them in the enviable position of being able to win their second straight divisional championship by defeating the Chicago Bears and New York Giants in their final two games.

The Lions' win, their eighth against two setbacks, also put additional pressure on the runner-up Los Angeles Rams and third-place San Francisco 49ers. These teams must win their remaining games and hope the Lions stumble somewhere in the closing weeks.

Following the Layne-Box touchdown—which was the third longest touchdown pass play in league history—the Lions became red-hot in the chilly 24-degree weather and whipped the Packers for the ninth straight time. Halfback Bob Hoernschemeyer scored what proved to be the winning touchdown just 2 1/2 minutes after Box's score. He took a pitchout and circled right end for 41 yards.

That put the Lions ahead 21-15 but Green Bay, fighting to win for Coach Gene Ronzani, reportedly on his way out after four years as head coach, made one last bid. The Packers, in a sustained drive, bulled to Detroit's 4 but Quarterback Babe Parilli lost the ball on fourth down on a fumbled lateral.

Lions Halfback Jack Christiansen picked up the loose ball and rammed 92 yards for what looked like a touchdown. But the rules stipulate that a team cannot run with a recovered fumbled lateral unless the ball is caught in the air.

Reed Stoworthy drove over from a yard out for Brigham Young's second-period touchdown. Brigham Young: 7 6 12-33
Detroit: 7 6 13-34
UTAH SCORING—TD: Petersen 4, Uerco. PAT: Mele 3.

Utah Edges Surprising BYU On Fumbled Extra-Point Try

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—University of Utah edged a sadly underrated Brigham Young University football team 33-32 in a nationally televised game here Thursday.

A crowd of 20,189, largest of the season in Utah, watched the Cougars from Provo, concluding a poor season, come roaring back and tie Utah in knots.

Three times the Cougars came from behind to tie the score. And they missed a final tie by the narrow margin of a fumble on a point after touchdown.

Utah scored in the first period only to have the Cougars tie it up at 7-7. Each team scored again in the second quarter and went into halftime tied at 13-13.

Utah scored two quick touchdowns in the third period, against one for the Cougars, but the fired BYU team tallied two touchdowns in the final quarter against one for Utah.

After the final Brigham Young touchdown, Lavon Satterfield fumbled the ball while holding for Billy Meadows and Utah pounded on him preventing an attempt to kick.

Utah's vaunted aerial attack was a first while BYU, weak in the air most of the season, cruised up the Utes and passed them dizzy.

The Cougars outgained the Utes' scampering fullback, scored all but one of Utah's five touchdowns. Max Pierce got the other, hauling in a pass in the Brigham Young end zone. Don Rydahl did the tossing, gaining 20 yards and the touchdown on the play.

Petersen got his first touch-

Detroit Trounces Wichita U, 26-6

WICHITA (AP)—Lee Riley scored three touchdowns to lead the University of Detroit Titans to a 26-6 Thanksgiving Day football victory over Wichita University.

The triumph gave Detroit a share of the Missouri Valley Conference championship, and a 6-4 overall season record.

Riley scored from the one-yard line on early in the second quarter, topping a 74-yard march.

We guess the fly boys won't be happy until they meet themselves coming back. We hear they're experimenting with atomic-powered rocket airplanes that will go faster and stay in the air longer than anything that's been airborne up to now.

Jet planes are all right, but they can't carry enough fuel to stay in the air for any length of time. Gas powered planes have a longer range, but they can't travel as fast as jets. The new atomic rocket sky hawks will combine the best features of both and throw in a road map of where you've been. Spartans, Illini Top Statistics

CHICAGO (P)—Michigan State and Illinois shared 1953 Big Ten statistical honors as well as the football title, final official conference statistics showed Thursday.

MSC, the Big Ten Rose Bowl entry, was the defensive champion and Illinois took the title on offense.

Illinois average 284.5 yards rushing per game and posted a total offense average of 359.3.

Both teams topped the conference but fell short of the Big Ten record of 320 rushing by Michigan in 1943 and 415.5 total offense by Wisconsin last year.

The Illini led in scoring with an average of 25.7 points. Their average per rush was also tops, 5.13 yards, but their average per play (passes included) of 5.44 was shaded by Wisconsin's 5.81.

Michigan State yielded 188.5 yards per game, a low of 8.3 points and a per-play gain of 3.16 yards. Iowa had the stoutest defense against rushing, allowing opponents a 121.5 average.

Illinois ranked second on defense, followed by Iowa, Wisconsin and Purdue. Wisconsin ranked second on offense, ahead of Michigan State, Ohio State, Indiana and Northwestern.

Five minor team records were set: 1—Iowa, against Purdue, Nov. 7, and Minnesota, against Iowa Nov. 14, failed to make a first down by passing.

2—Minnesota had a new low for punt averages, 27.8.

3—Michigan, against Northwestern, had no penalties enforced against it.

4—Purdue, against Indiana, set a high in number of penalties, 16.

5—Illinois, with a fast-charging line that frequently incurred offside calls, had a new high of 8.2 penalties per game.

Southern Pressed By Chattanooga

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (P)—Mississippi Southern scored two touchdowns in the last three minutes against Chattanooga to break a 19-19 tie and defeat the Moccasins 23-19 Thursday.

Southern, a top-ranking small college power which had defeated two giants of the Southeastern Conference, Alabama and Georgia, was fought off its feet by the inspired Moccasins before pulling it out.

The Southerners had relied on Chattanooga mistakes to stay in the ballgame until their final drives.

Scranton Beats Hofstra

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (P)—Junior Halfback Jim Lavery scored twice and gained 210 yards Thursday to lead the University of Scranton to a 20-6 victory over Hofstra before 2,370 fans.

Lavery, for the past two seasons one of the East's top ground gainers, scored twice in the fourth quarter, going 45 yards up the middle for the first touchdown and skirting left end for 11 for the second.

Up And Down He Goes

Hofstra Back Tom Nunziata holds onto the pigskin as he's upended on an end run for the first down during the second period of the game against Scranton Thursday. An unidentified Scranton tackler stops Nunziata after he crashed into Back Jim Lavery (51, foreground). Identifiable Scranton players are Back J. Zack (34) and Center Pete Zarnoski (47). Omar Dittmer Heads List Of Six Concordia Net Veterans

SEWARD—Coach Luther Schwich's 1953 edition of Concordia's basketball team is bolstered by six returning lettermen, plus three transfer students, and several members of last season's Bulldog reserve squad.

All-Conference forward Omar Dittmer heads the list of returning lettermen. The Brighton, Colo., senior is one of the fastest men on the squad. Six-foot 4-inch Benie Kluge, St. Paul, Minn., and second high scorer in last season's season is back for his last season.

Sophomore Don Petersen of Seward is expected to add punch to the squad. The 6-2 forward is a top defensive and rebounding ace.

The three remaining lettermen are all senior guards. Rollin Cattau, Columbus, Neb., is finishing his fourth year on the Bulldog squad. Wes Visser, Tonasket, Wash., and Frank Jorcke, St. Louis, Mo., the two married men on the team, round out the list of lettermen.

Three junior transfers are slated to see a lot of action this season. Ethan Brauer, 6-2 center from Grover, Colo., and Norm Clasen, 6-1 guard, hailing from Spicer, Minn., join the Bulldogs after playing their first

Perez After Win No. 24 At Garden

NEW YORK (P)—Flashy Lulu Perez of Brooklyn goes after his 24th straight victory Friday night in a return ten-rounder with scrappy Davey Gallardo of Los Angeles at Madison Square Garden.

The 20-year-old boxer-puncher is a 3-1 favorite to repeat his Sept. 4 victory. Off their first fight, a blazer all the way, the odds seem out of line. Perez was a 4-1 choice that night.

True, Perez won an eighth-round technical knockout because of two long, deep gashes over Gallardo's left eye. Fifteen stitches were required to close the wounds.

But Gallardo, a 23-year-old veteran of 65 pro bouts, had come on strong and almost put Lulu away in the eighth with a right-hand smash to the chin.

For the eight rounds of the scheduled ten, the officials were split 2-1. The AP scorecard had the west coaster ahead, 4-3-1. Tonight's 7 p.m. (CST) bout, which will be broadcast (ABC) and telecast (NBC), will be scored under the same round system. A supplementary point system also is used to break draws.

Gallardo, after a rough start in which he was chopped by Lulu's stabbing jabs and left-right combinations, apparently had solved the Brooklyn boxer's style. He was pressing the youngster and landing clean, crisp rights to the head over Lulu's lowered guard. Perez has a bad habit of dropping his hands.

The cuts, however, were too deep and he was bleeding profusely. Trainer Chalky Wright, the former featherweight champion, told Referee Ruby Goldstein to stop the fight right after the eighth round ended.

Dr. Vincent Nardiello removed the scar tissue over Gallardo's left eye shortly after the fight.

Denver, Wyoming Fight To 13-13 Tie

DENVER (P)—Wyoming's Cowboys used Joe Mastrogiovanni's passing arm to break open Denver's defenses in the second half and gained a 13-13 tie with the Pioneers in their Skyline Conference football windup Thursday.

Denver went in front, 13-6, with six and a half minutes to play. Wyoming took the ensuing kickoff on a speedy drive up the field for the tying touchdown. Pete Kutches started the march by returning the kickoff to Wyoming's 49.

Mastrogiovanni tossed three successive aeriels covering 51 yards for the touchdown. The payoff pass to End Cedric Couch covered 19 yards. Mastrogiovanni then booted the extra point to tie the game.

Mapp, a 165-pound senior from Norfolk and an all-Southern Conference halfback, scored his three touchdowns on bursts of three, nine and 31 yards, while Servidio, the line-buster from Lyndhurst, N. J., scored the other on a six-yard crash through the line.

VMI SCORING TD: Mapp 3, Servidio. PAT: Woolwine 4.

VPI SCORING TD: Williams, Scruggs. PAT: Beard.

Notre Dame Tactics Still Being Disputed

By WHITNEY MARTIN
NEW YORK (P)—Mr. Bright and Mr. Phogg discuss current events:

Mr. Phogg—It says here the Iowa coach says his team got gyped when it was tied by Notre Dame. What does that mean?

Mr. Bright—Well, the Iowans seem to think the Notre Dame players stopped the clock by faking injuries so they'd have time to score their touchdowns.

Mr. Phogg—Who said they weren't hurt, then?

Mr. Bright—Why, the people who saw it said it was pretty obvious, that the acting was too hammy.

Mr. Phogg—Did the players say they were faking?

Mr. Bright—Well, I guess not. Not that I read, anyway.

Mr. Phogg—Who is to say they weren't hurt, then? If I have a stomach ache and double up, nobody's going to tell me I haven't got a stomach ache.

Mr. Bright—I guess that's right. But the timing of the injuries made everybody suspicious.

Mr. Phogg—Why? Isn't a player liable to get hurt in the last minute of play?

Mr. Bright—Sure, but they seem to think it was too much of a coincidence.

Mr. Phogg—What does the rule say about excess time out without penalty?

Mr. Bright—It says that after a team's five free time-outs have been exhausted, subsequent requests by its field captain may be allowed only for the benefit of a designated injured player and such time-out, if allowed, is an excess time-out.

Mr. Phogg—Well, doesn't that take care of it? The guys were hurt, so Notre Dame was allowed the excess times out.

Mr. Bright—You don't get the point. The point is that Iowa doesn't believe anybody was hurt, and it was just a trick.

Mr. Phogg—But the rule says "only for the benefit of an injured player." If nobody was hurt they weren't playing according to rules. Frank Leahy wouldn't allow that, would he?

Mr. Bright—He was on the bench. He didn't call time out. Besides, that trick is pulled all the time. It just happened to pay off this time, so everybody gets steamed up over it.

Mr. Phogg—But does that make it right just because other teams do it? I got pinched for speeding once when other cars were passing me lickety split. I told the cop the other cars were going faster than I was, and he just said that don't cut no ice. They were breaking the law too, but that didn't mean it was okay for me to do it.

Mr. Bright—Maybe you got something there. But, as I said, maybe the guys really were hurt. A referee can't say "Got up and play and quit dogging it." The guys might be hurt real bad. Just as you said, nobody can tell you you haven't got a stomach ache.

Mr. Phogg—I haven't got a stomach ache. I feel fine.

Mr. Bright—Don't be silly. I'm just using your own comparison.

Mr. Phogg—Well, if Notre Dame won by not playing according to rules, they must feel a little cheap about it. They

BARON LEONE

Baron Leone Tops Wrestle Program

Baron Leone, the haughty villain of television fame, will be Promoter Adam Krieger's headline wrestling attraction at the Fairgrounds Tuesday night.

The Baron, who features shoulder-length hair and one of the most colorful styles in the game, will meet Sonny Myers of St. Joseph, Mo., a longtime Lincoln favorite.

"Myers tells me that he's going to pull a Sampson on The Baron," Krieger said. "He is going to cut his hair and also trim him in wrestling."

Ex-Husker Mike DiBiase faces Maurice Robierre of France in the semi-windup.

A new face and a familiar name will appear in the opener. Bearcat Wright Jr., son of the old boxer, will make his wrestling debut against Dan Plechas, the grunting bartender.

LONDON (P)—Dutch Referee Leo Horn explained why he kept patting the Hungarians on the back during a soccer match against England.
"I did this merely to hurry them up because they were spending too much time kissing each other," he said.
Hungary beat England, 6-3.

Tall And Talented Links Team To Watch

By RON GIBSON
Star Sports Staff Member

Putting a team on a coach on the spot, especially before the season starts, is not a good way to make that coach happy. But we would be off base if we didn't say that we think Lyle Weyand's Lincoln High basketball team will be the team to watch in Class A this season at least until further developments prove us wrong.

Weyand, who may not have a championship team and who may find it tough to see his team successfully through the first two games of the season, is nevertheless, pretty well to do in the talent department.

His Lincoln High squad of 12 includes six freshmen from the team that went to the semifinals of the state tournament last season before losing to the eventual titlist, Boys Town. One of the six is a regular, Ernie Hollibaugh, 6-foot 5-inch center who will move to forward this year, was a starter last season.

Hollibaugh will move to forward to make room for 6-foot 8-inch Graves, junior pivot man who gradually worked into the varsity picture as a sophomore last season.

Other returning lettermen are Bernie Randolph, Art Weaver, Al Lewis and Bob Lee. All are six feet tall or taller.

Weyand's squad is rangy and fast. It has some good shooters. It has men who can drive for the basket. It has rebounders.

Sounds good?

Yes, but there are problems

No longer will the Links have the advantage of playing in the small, Whittier gym in Lincoln. High's first two home games will be played at the Northeast Auditorium and the remainder of them at Nebraska Wesleyan's new plant.

So the Links will be playing virtually all of their six home games on the road. They will claim no home-court advantage.

There is the problem of possible overconfidence, too. And there is the schedule.

Right off the bat the Links play Scottsbluff Dec. 3 and Fremont Dec. 4. Scottsbluff is a traditional toughie and Fremont has eight men back from last year's squad including 6-3, 200-pound Center Mike Dallam, an all-state footballer.

Dulles Asked To Seek Relaxed Terms On Gouzenko Quizzing

Jenner To Press Study Of Alleged Espionage In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The case of Igor Gouzenko was back in the hands of the House of Representatives Thursday, with Secretary of State Dulles asked to seek from Canada a relaxation of the terms under which Gouzenko can be questioned by Senate investigators about Soviet spying.

Until Dulles has had a fresh exchange of views with Canada's foreign secretary, Lester B. Pearson, it appeared that the Senate's Internal Security Subcommittee would take no further steps to interrogate Gouzenko, former code expert in the Russian Embassy at Ottawa.

But Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.), subcommittee chairman, has additional iron in the fire, and he indicated Thursday his group will press its investigation of alleged espionage in the United States.

Jenner said in a statement that Alger Hiss and eight other persons who used to work for the federal government are now under special scrutiny by the subcommittee.

Paruch Hearings

Jenner said "the subcommittee is trying to determine who is responsible for their continued employment, which has involved increased authority, continued access to government secrets and increases in pay" despite derogatory information about them.

The subcommittee, of which Jenner is chairman, announced it has printed for public distribution the testimony taken at an open hearing here last June 25 from J. Anthony Paruch, a New York City lawyer who formerly was deputy assistant secretary of state for administration.

Gouzenko exposed a big Soviet spy network in Canada when he renounced Communism in 1945. The espionage activities apparently extended into the United States, and it is in this connection that the Jenner subcommittee is anxious to talk with him.

Canada has agreed that Gouzenko may be questioned by the subcommittee but it set these conditions:

Gouzenko, now living under an assumed name and under police protection, must be willing; the meeting with American authorities must be a confidential one; and the decision to make public or keep secret any information obtained from Gouzenko must rest with Canada.

Jenner has objected to the last condition.

In asking Dulles to try for a change in the arrangement, Jenner wrote that he felt the subcommittee could not receive evidence from the country of the United States... and commit itself not to make it available to Congress. The point of the bill that making it available to Congress would in effect make it public.

Whether Dulles will be able to persuade the Canadians to change their minds remained to be seen. Pearson has said "we came to our decision only after very careful consideration."

Furthermore, his attitude appears to have the full support of the Canadian Parliament.

Renewed interest in what Gouzenko might have to tell was aroused after the Jenner subcommittee aired the explosive case of Harry Dexter White, an assistant secretary of the treasury who was promoted to a post in the International Monetary Fund at a time when the FBI had information and made it known to his superiors that White was connected with a spy ring. White is now dead.

Sen. Malone (R-Nev.) made an accusation against White Thursday when he charged that the economy "phoned" up estimates of American reserves in strategic minerals in an effort to promote a multi-billion dollar postwar loan to the Soviet Union.

The loan was never made, but Malone said that White "deliberately underestimated" U.S. mineral and petroleum reserves to make the Russian loan appear to be a wise move.

Malone, a supporter of the mining industry in the Western states, is now conducting an inquiry into the strategic materials sold to the Soviet Union.

He has repeatedly argued that the government should promote the domestic mining industry as against imports.

The Montreal Gazette reported Thursday that a key member of the spy ring that Gouzenko exposed has gone to Czechoslovakia to live, leaving his wife and 15-year-old daughter in Canada.

Earthquake Kills Japanese Farmer

TOKYO (Friday) (INS)—One death was blamed today on a strong earthquake that jarred Japan's eastern seaboard early Thursday.

A 58-year-old farmer, Kimino-suke Numazaki, was reported electrocuted when he touched a power line severed by the shock in Baragi Prefecture (province) north of Tokyo.

Seismologists said the quake would have caused major property damage had it been centered on land.

The epicenter of the tremor was located on the floor of the Pacific Ocean about 60 miles southeast of the Boso Peninsula which forms the western shore of Tokyo.

6 Nation Envoys Renew Attempt For Political Control Of EDC

Representatives Cheered By News Of Treaty OK By Belgium House

By JOSEPH DYNAN
THE HAGUE (AP)—Representatives of six European nations—cheered by progress in Belgium, but frustrated by setbacks in France—renewed attempts here Thursday to set up a political control for the projected European Army.

The foreign ministers of West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg agreed to speed up work on a six-nation political authority through a commission of governmental experts who will meet regularly until the project is finally adopted.

The ministers also agreed to base their work Friday and Saturday on a lengthy report from these experts, who met recently in Rome.

Alexandre Parodi, secretary general of the French Foreign Ministry, is representing Bidault because the minister was detained in Paris by a political crisis which threatens to topple Premier Joseph Laniel's government Friday. If this happens, it would probably also topple all existing schemes for closer political, economic and military union on the continent.

Belgium News
Gloom cast over the session by the absence of Bidault was somewhat dissipated in midafternoon Thursday by the news that Belgium's House of Representatives had approved the European Defense Community Treaty 148-49 and Senate approval was sure to follow.

Only West Germany's parliament has completed ratification of the 16-month-old treaty, which would put a half million West German troops with those of the five other nations under a unified command. The Dutch House has voted approval, but—as in Belgium—the Senate has still to act.

The "political authority" which the ministers are pondering here would be designed to provide coordinated, democratic control of both the defense community and the existing Schuman coal-steel pool, which involves the same six nations.

Sweeping Power
Italy's Premier—Foreign Minister, Giuseppe Pella, urged the ministers to stand firm on their declaration of Sept. 10, 1952, when they instructed a special assembly to draft a plan for European political confederation. This declaration called for an institution with sweeping political, economic and social powers.

Government quarters in Bonn were reported disturbed at French and Italian developments. West German independence hinges now on complete ratification of the Defense Community Treaty.

Allied and German circles in Bonn say Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will be in a precarious position with his people if approval does not come within two or three months.

Northeast Debate Team Undeclared

Doane College speech conference director, Bob Buckley, right, awards a certificate of merit to the Lincoln Northeast High School debate team, Doug Thrope, left, and Dick Andrews, the only undefeated twosome in the meet held on the Doane campus at Crete. Schools represented at the speech tourney included McCook, Omaha Holy Name, Norfolk, Lincoln High, Omaha Benson, Omaha North, Lincoln Northeast and Omaha Tech. (Photo Special to The Star.)

Settlement Okayed — A $1,425 lump sum settlement to Frank W. May from the Sullivan Transfer and Storage Co., for an alleged shoulder injury suffered in an Aug. 22, 1952, accident during his employment, has been approved by the Lancaster District Court.

New Muny Air Terminal Opening Dec. 1

Lincoln's new $225,000 Municipal Airport Terminal Building is now completed and will be occupied by United Air Lines on Dec. 1.

The first United flight out of the new terminal will be the Denver, Cheyenne, Scottsbluff, North Platte, Grand Island, Lincoln and Omaha flight at 12 noon. United plans no dedicatory services but the city will officially open the new terminal at a later date.

John Mitchell of United at Lincoln stated that the new terminal is "a most beautiful building. We of United are very proud of it."

Mitchell also reminded that the new building would offer better service. The structure, he said, will be approached from a county road off of Highway 34 and will be three and one-half miles closer to downtown Lincoln.

Also, he said, the new location will eliminate all driving through the Air Base by patrons.

Toy Train Is Blamed For $100,000 Blaze

CINCINNATI (AP)—Fire, believed to have started from a short circuit in an electric toy train, caused an estimated $100,000 damage to a five-story building in downtown Cincinnati Thursday.

Firemen, pouring water into the top two floors from six aerial ladders, confined the blaze to the one building, housing the Foltz Electric Co., and brought it under control in an hour and a half.

Fifty policemen held back Thanksgiving holiday crowds.

Kidney Slow-Down May Bring Restless Nights

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, headaches, dizziness and loss of pep and energy. Don't suffer restless nights with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages. Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. It's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Which Will Stop the Reds?

A radar net and balanced air, sea and land forces, or the threat of a pulverizing atomic attack delivered by a mighty fleet of bombers? There are powerful arguments on both sides and you'll be hearing plenty of them when Congress gets into session. What it decides will shape U. S. strategy.

Albania Land Of TB, 'Terror And Persecution,' Refugees Claim

CORFU ISLAND, Greece (AP)—Two brothers, refugees from Communist Albania, said here Thursday half their country's population of one million suffers from tuberculosis and the other half from "terror and persecution."

The brothers are Athanasios Nicolao, 26, and Christaki, 24, who put sleeping pills in the wine of the captain and crew of a Communist vessel and piloted it to this island on Monday.

The U. S. Air Force flew a plane here from Athens with foreign and Greek newsmen aboard to hear the brothers' story.

The story of their adventures—some flight was this: Athanasios was an engineer on the 10-ton Albanian supply boat Dynamo. Christaki was a barber in Valona, the Albanian port city. They were on the Dynamo when it left Valona Sunday night for St. Quaranta, 50 miles to the south.

They drugged the captain and two guards by putting sleeping pills in their wine.

They took over control of the boat and headed for Corfu Island, only a few miles across the Corfu Strait from St. Quaranta. Christaki said he fired a couple of shots in the air and one into the leg of one of the guards "to quiet him" on Monday morning.

Reign Of Terror

This was the brothers' report on conditions inside Albania: The Russians have terrorized the country to the point where any attempt at rebellion would fail. "The Russians have tightened all security organs. You do not know whether your own brothers are for you or against you."

There are 400 Russian civilians in Albania dictating the government's policies and 150 Soviet officers in charge of the Albanian army and security organs. The secret police "have stepped up a reign of terror inside Albania."

Food Scarce

Food is scarce. The brothers had not seen meat for two years. A massive black market is operated by the government itself.

"They give us ration cards but everyone knows there is not enough food to go around," Athanasios said. "I would have committed suicide if I had not escaped."

They said their mother died last year after police "kicked her in the stomach" when they were looking for her sons for forced labor.

The brothers will remain in Greece. The captain and the two guards said they want to go back to Albania.

Similarity Seen In Councils Of Today And 53 Years Ago

Paul Bailey, 1111 Belmont, vividly recalls the days of 1900 when his father, Charles M. Bailey, served on the City Council from the seventh ward.

And he sees in today's City Council a growing similarity in some respects to the city government of 53 years ago. In 1899 and 1900, recalls Bailey, the Council met on Monday nights above the old police station at 10th and Q.

During that period, the Council, composed of two representatives from each of the city's seven wards, was divided into more than a dozen standing committees. Today, there are no city wards but the Council is once again being divided up into a group of smaller committees.

New Groups

To name a few, there are the Council's special storm sewer, sanitary sewer, real estate, P Street, special assessment district, interest rate, off street parking and power committees. Those are all committees composed, like they were in 1900, of two or three Council members for the purpose of studying special subjects and reporting back to the whole Council.

But in nearly every other line, Bailey sees little similarity in the Lincoln of 1900 and 1953. In those days of a 65,000 population the city had 22 miles of paving, 50 miles of water mains, 42 miles of sewers and 44 miles of street railway lines.

About the only thing that has remained unchanged is the city's altitude. Today, there are more than 280 miles of paving, 310 miles of water mains and 270 miles of sewer lines.

Always Taken The Star

Bailey, who has been a Star subscriber since the first paper was printed in 1902 and "wouldn't think of having any other paper," remembers well the flood of 1908 when you could board a row boat at 11th and Belmont and float down to the West O viaduct. It was shortly after that, Bailey recalls, that the Oak Creek channel was moved to its present location to stop the floods on Salt.

Oak Creek, he remembered, emptied into and ran against the Salt Creek current at about 2nd and P.

And Bailey gets a laugh out of the thought of cattle feeding in pasture land southeast of 16th and O when he was a boy. Everybody in those days, he remembered, had a cow and 16th and O was quite a cattle center.

A Lincoln resident since 1892, Bailey, who has lived in his present home since 1900, believes Belmont has a lot to offer the people of Lincoln if the people only realized it. Some of the best building sites in Lincoln, he claims, are located in Belmont.

'McCarthy's Wisconsin Popularity Exaggerated'

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—People living outside Wisconsin have an exaggerated concept of U. S. Sen. McCarthy's stature in this state, Rep. Lester R. Johnson (D-Black River Falls) asserted Thursday.

Johnson made the statement in the December issue of the Progressive, independent monthly magazine.

The newly-elected congressman from Wisconsin's ninth district stated:

"People forget that in 1952, the year of the Republican sweep, McCarthy ran far behind the entire GOP slate."

"McCarthy is a lot more popular in Texas than he is in my state."

"Texas has more reason to be grateful. McCarthy helped to take our share of the tidelands oil and give it to Texas."

Doris Duke Home Sold

RENO (INS)—Sale of tobacco heiress Doris Duke's palatial Reno home to a Reno wholesale meat dealer was disclosed Thursday. The home, which the heiress purchased when she first established her legal residence in Nevada, was sold for approximately $45,000. It was purchased by Len Harris. Miss Duke now is living in her Honolulu mansion, Shangri-La.

Nationalists Will Get Two U.S. Destroyers

TAIPEH, Formosa (Friday) (INS)—A group of Nationalist Chinese sailors was reported today enroute to the United States to take over two U.S. destroyers for the Nationalist Chinese Navy. Reliable government informants said the destroyers will arrive at Formosa next February after the Nationalist Navy men have spent several weeks in shake-down training under U.S. supervision.

Bishop Watts Speaks At Father-Son Banquet

PAWNEE CITY, Neb.—Bishop H. Bascom Watts of Lincoln was the main speaker at the father-son banquet held at the Methodist Church here. Ninety persons attended the gathering.

During the service, Bishop Watts presented a charter to George Stitzel, president of the local Methodist Men, a newly organized group of the church.
